The name of Sinclair, which is originally from the family of Saint Clare, in France, has been very eminent in Scotland. Sir William Sinclair, in the reign of Alexander I. obtained several lands from that king, as the barony of Rosslyn, in Mid-Lothian. From him descended Henry, who was created earl of Orkney, and married Giles, daughter and heir to William Douglas, earl of Nithsdale, by the princess Giles, his wife, daughter of king Robert II. by whom he had a son, William; and a daughter, Elizabeth, married to John Drummond; and being governor to James, prince of Scotland, when his father, king Robert III. sent him to France, they were both taken at sea, by the English. William, who succeeded his father as earl of Orkney, and his mother as earl of Nithsdale, was made lord chancellor of Scotland by king James II. He married to his first wife, Margaret, daughter of Archibald, earl of Douglas, and duchess of Turenne, in France, and had William, his successor, from whom is descended the lord Sinclair; and by his second wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander, he had four sons, William, Oliver, David, and John. He was created earl of Caithness, in 1456, which honours he resigned in favour of William, his son, by his second wife, from whom the present earl is lineally descended. Alexander, the ninth earl, left an only daughter, Dorothea, who married James, earl of Fife.

His lordship's father, William, the tenth earl, descended from John, grandson of the fourth earl, succeeded, in 1767. He married Barbara, daughter of Mr. Sinclair, by whom (who died in 1793) he had two sons, William and John; William died at New York, in Dec. 1776; and a daughter, Janet, married, on July 31, 1784, to James Traill, esq. His lordship died in Nov. 1799, when he was succeeded by his only surviving son, John, the late lord,

The first of the noble family of Erskine, earl of Kellie, was sir Alexander Erskine, of Gogar, third son of John, twelfth lord Erskine, and fifth earl of Marr, by lady Margaret Campbell, daughter of Archibald, second earl of Argyll. After the death of his brother John, sixth earl of Marr, (regent of Scotland) he was appointed by the parliament, in 1572, governor to the young king James the Sixth, and First of England. In the year 1578, he was constituted governor of Edinburgh Castle, vice-chamberlain of Scotland, and of his majesty's privy council: he married Margaret, daughter of George, fourth lord Home, by whom he had three sons and three daughters; sir Alexander, killed at the surprise of Stirling Castle, anno 1578: 2. sir Thomas, afterwards earl of Kellie: 3. sir George Erskine, of Innertail, one of the senators of the College of

EARLS.

Justice. 1st daughter, Margaret, married to James Crichton, of Ruthven, esq. 2d daughter, Jane, married John Leslie, of Ruthven, esq. mother, by him, to Walter, first count Leslie, in Germany.

Sir Thomas having been educated with the king, (James the Sixth) was constantly about his person, from his birth to his death, and always in great favour with that prince; in the year 1585, he was appointed one of the gentlemen of his majesty's bedchamber. He had the good fortune to be one of the happy instruments in the rescue of the king's person from the treasonable attempt of John, earl of Gourie, and his brother, Alexander Ruthven, at Perth, on the 5th of Aug. 1600, having killed the latter as he came down stairs. In the year 1603, he accompanied king James to England, and was constituted captain of the yeomen of the guard, in place of sir Walter Raleigh; he was one of the knights of the bath at the king's coronation; and the same year raised to the dignity of the peerage, by the title of lord Dirleton, and of his majesty's most honourable privy council in both kingdoms.

In the year 1606, he was appointed groom of the stole, and created viscount Fenton, being the first of that dignity in Scotland; in 1615, he was elected knight of the most noble order of the garter; and in the year 1619, on the 12th of March, created earl of Kellie, being a district of the county of Fife, and of O d, called Kellieshire: he married Anne, daughter of Gilbert Ogilvie, of Powrie, esq. by whom he had one son and one daughter, lady Anne, married to sir Robert Mowbrow, of Barnbogle—His son, Alexander, commonly called Master of Fenton, and afterwards viscount Fenton; he was one of the knights of the bath at the creation of Charles, duke of York to the prince of Wales, afterwards king Charles the first, and one of the lords of his majesty's bedchamber—He married lady Anne Seaton, eldest daughter of Alexander, first earl of Dumfermline, chancellor of Scotland, by whom he had four sons and three daughters, ladies Mary, Sophia, and Margaret. 1st daughter, married Gavin, second earl of Carnwarth. 2d daughter, married Alexander, ninth lord Forbes. 3rd daughter, married Alexander, lord Salton—Of the sons, Thomas succeeded his father: Alexander succeeded his brother, and carried on the line of his family: Charles, created a baronet after the restoration, was Lyon king at arms, and lieutenant-governor of Edinburgh castle, and was the first of the Cambo family; and Arthur, killed on the king's side, at the battle of Dunbar; he died before his father in the year 1633.

Thomas, first earl of Kellie, died in the year 1639, and was succeeded by his grandson, Thomas, second earl of Kellie; he was a great loyalist, and steady adherent to the king; he died in the year 1644, and was succeeded by his brother, Alexander, third earl, who adhered most faithfully to the royal family, during the whole continuance of the great rebellion, and suffered many hardships, both in body and estate; was taken prisoner at the battle of Worcester, and was in confinement many years—After the restoration, he was appointed governor of the fort and town of Ayr, lieutenant-colonel of the guards, and one of his majesty's most honourable privy council; he married Mary Kilpatrick, daughter to lieutenant-general Kilpatrick, governor of the Bush, in Holland, by whom he had one daughter, lady Anne, married her cousin, sir Alexander Erskine, of Cambo, bart.—He married, secondly, Mary Dalziel, sister of Robert, third earl of Carnwarth, by whom he had one son and two daughters, ladies Elizabeth and Mary; the first, married — Fraser, of Innerallachy, esq. he died in the year 1677, and was succeeded by his son, Alexander, fourth earl of Kellie; he married lady Anne Lindsay, daughter of Colin, third earl of Balcarras, by whom he had one son and one daughter, lady Jane, married Walter Scott, of Harden, esq.—This earl was a great opposer of the union: he died in the year 1710, and was succeeded by his son, Alexander, fifth earl of Kellie; he married Miss Murray, daughter of William Murray, of Abercairny, esq. by whom he had no issue; he married, secondly, Janet, daughter of the celebrated Dr. Archibald Pitcairn, of Pitcairn, by whom he had four sons and four daughters; (one son and daughter died young:) of the sons, Thomas, Archibald, and Andrew; the daughters, lady Elizabeth, married to Walter M'Farlane, of M'Farlane, esq. secondly, to the late Alexander, fifth lord Colville, of Culross, rear-admiral of his majesty's navy; she died in Nov. 1794—second daughter, lady lady Anne—lady Janet, married sir Robert Anstruther, of Balcaskie, bart. she died in the year 1770, leaving three sons and three daughters—Alexander, fifth earl of Kellie, died 1756, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Thomas, sixth earl of Kellie, who died at Brussels, Oct. 1781, and was succeeded by his brother, Archibald, seventh earl of Kellie; he served many years in the army, and was one of the representatives of the Scots peerage in the late parliament—The honourable Andrew Erskine, died in the year 1793, and who, dying unmarried, was succeeded by sir Charles Erskine of Cambo, bart. the eighth earl, who dying unmarried, in Nov. 1789, was succeeded by his nephew, Thomas Erskine, of Cambo, esq. the present peer.

GEORGE STEWART, EARL OF GALLOWAY, Lord Viscount Garlies, and Baron STEWART, in Great Britain, a Captain in the Royal Navy, Lord Lieutenant of the county of Wigton, succeeded his father, John, the late earl, K. T. Nov. 13, 1806. Married, April 19, 1797, lady Jane Paget, second daughter of Henry, earl of Uxbridge, and has issue Viscount Garlies, born Sept. 12, 1800.

Walter, hereditary lord high steward of Scotland, and one of the founders of the abbey of Paisley, had a son, Alexander, who, for his good services against the Danes, at the battle of Largs, in Conyngham, and his successful exertions for the recovery of the Isle of Man to the crown of Scotland, had a grant from king Alexander III. in 1263, of the lands of Garlies and Glaserton, and therein was succeeded by his second son, sir John Stewart, of Bonkill and Jedworth, who, after the death of king Alexander III. succeeding sir William Wallace, in the chief command of the Scots, and engaging the English under the command of Edward I. was slain at the battle of Falkirk, July 22, 1298.

Walter, his third son, had a grant of the lands of Garlies, from his nephew, John Randolph, earl of Murray, who had succeeded to them, in consequence of his father's marriage with Isabel, daughter of sir John Stewart, of Bonkill. This grant is still extant in lord Galloway's charter-chest—sir Walter was knighted soon after the battle of Bannockburn, which happened in the beginning of Edward II.'s reign, and where the Scots proved victorious. Sir Walter, as a further reward for his services to his country, obtained a charter from king Robert I. of the lands of Dalswinton, in Nithsdale.—He was succeeded by his son, sir John, who always strenuously adhered to king David Bruce, and attended him in the battle of Durham, in the year 1346. He had a son, sir Walter, who succeeded him, and lived in the reigns of kings Robert II. and III. and was subsidized by Richard II. king of England; but sir Walter having no

male issue, his only daughter married sir John Stewart, of Jedworth, son of sir William Stewart, of Jedworth, sheriff of Tiviotdale, who was the brother of the celebrated sir John Stewart, of Darnley, killed at the siege of Orleans, in the year 1429—Sir John Stewart, of Jedworth, was succeeded in his estates of Garlies and Dalswinton, by his eldest son, sir William Stewart, who had a son and successor, Alexander; sir Thomas Stewart, of Minto, ancestor to the lords Blantyre, and the earls of Londonderry, (see Earl of Londonderry, in the Peerage of Ireland) and Walter Stewart, of whom proceeded the branch of Tonarghee.

Sir Alexander, who succeeded his father, married Elizabeth Livingston, of the family of lord Livingston, by whom he had Alexander, his successor—Archibald, ancestor of the Stewarts, earls of Blessington, and viscounts Mountjoy, in Ireland; and a daughter, Agnes, married to John, the second lord Maxwell, ancestor of the earls of Nithsdale—the said Alexander, her brother, was knighted by king James III. as a reward for his gallant conduct. He bravely supported the royal standard against the rebellious barons, at the battle of Bannockburn. He married Margaret Maclellan, daughter of the proprietor of Bombre, ancestor to the lords Kircudbright, by whom he had sir A. Stewart, who married Jane Kennedy, daughter of the laird of Bargany, in Carrick, and by her was father of sixteen daughters, and of another, Alexander, who, on Sept. 9, 1513, was slain at the battle of Flowden, with James IV. and his cousin, Matthew, earl of Lennox—He married Christian, daughter of Archibald Douglas, of Cavers, and by her left Alexander, his heir; one of the privy council to king James V. who sent him ambassador to Henry VIII. of England—Sir Alexander, married Margaret, daughter of Sir Patrick Dunbar, of Clugston, and sister to Gavin, archbishop of Glasgow, chancellor of Scotland, and by her had two sons, Alexander his successor; and John, ancestor of the Stewarts of Phýsgill—Sir Alexander, was knighted at the marriage of Henry, lord Darnley, and is celebrated for having, at the instance of his cousin, Matthew, earl of Lennox, accepted the challenge of the famous Kirkaldy, of Grange, the champion of the queen's party. Kirkaldy, however, declined the combat, and sir Alexander was slain, in his father's lifetime, at the surprise surprise of Stirling, 1571, while he bravely attempted to defend the regent, Matthew, earl of Lennox—He married Catharine, daughter and coheir of Andrew Maxwell, lord Herrer; and by her left another, Alexander, who succeeded his grandfather, and was knighted at the coronation of queen Anne, consort of king James VI. He married Christian, daughter of sir James Douglas, the seventh lord Drumlanrig, ancestor to the duke of Queensberry, by whom he had two sons, Alexander and William; and two daughters: and dying in 1595, was succeeded by his eldest son, (the first earl) Alexander, who was created lord Garlies in 1607, chiefly in consideration of his descent from the noble house of Lennox. In 1623, he was created earl of Galloway, and made one of the privy council to king James I. He married Grizel, daughter of John Gordon, of Lochinvar, ancestor to the viscount Kenmure, and by her had Alexander, his heir; sir James Stewart, who was created a baronet; and a daughter Anne.

(2d Earl.) Alexander, the second earl, who, in 1649, succeeded his father; married Margaret, daughter of the earl of Monteith, and by her had a son, of his name; but he dying young, the estate and honour descended to

THOMAS BRUCE, EARL of ELGIN and KINCARDINE, Baron Bruce, of Kinloss and Torry, Knight of the Crescent, and a Colonel in the Army, Lord-lieutenant and Sheriff of Fifeshire. Succeeded his brother, William-Robert, the late earl, in 1777. Married, March 11, 1799, Miss Nisbet, daughter of the late William-Hamilton Nisbet, esq. of Dirleton, North Britain, and has issue, a son, lord Bruce, born April, 1800; a daughter, born March 4, 1801; and another daughter, born Jan. 21, 1806. The earl obtained his majesty's permission, March 20, 1802, to wear the insignia of the order of the crescent, transmitted by the Grand Seignior.

Edward Bruce, who was ambassador with the earl of Mar, to queen Elizabeth, at London, where he was greatly instrumental in the peaceful succession of king James I. to the throne of England, after the decease of the queen, by the intelligence he privately held, in her lifetime, with sir Robert Cecil, her secretary of state, had thereupon, in recompense, the office of master of the rolls given him for life; he was also, by that king, made a privy counsellor in both kingdoms, and created Baron BRUCE, of Kinloss; and deceasing, in 1610, was buried in the Rolls chapel, London, where a fine monument is erected to his memory. He married Magdalen, daughter of sir Alexander Clerk, of Balberney, and had issue, Edward, second lord; Thomas; and and a daughter, Christian, married to William Cavendish, earl of Devonshire, with whom king James I. gave, with his own hands, 10,000*l.* as a portion. Edward, second lord, succeeded his father, and was made a knight of the bath, at the creation of Henry, prince of Wales, and was one of the gentlemen of his bedchamber; but being killed in a duel, with sir Edward Sackville, afterwards earl of Dorset, Thomas, his brother, became the third lord, and was created Earl of Eglin, and Baron Bruce, of Whorlton. He married Anne, only daughter of sir Robert Chichester, of Raleigh, in Devonshire, knight of the bath, by Frances, his wife, youngest of the two daughters and coheirs of John, lord Harrington, of Exton, in Rutlandshire. His lordship dying, in 1663, was succeeded by Robert, his heir, the second earl, who was, for his loyalty to kings Charles I. and II. created Baron of Skelton, Viscount Amptill, and Earl of Lylesbury. He married Diana Grey, daughter of Henry, first earl of Stamford, and by her had eight sons and nine daughters—Diana married, first, sir Seymour Shirley, bart. The sons were Edward, Robert, Charles, Henry, Bernard, Thomas, Robert, and James; the five first died young—Thomas, the eldest son, succeeded his father as third earl of Elgin, and second earl of Aylesbury; he married, first, Elizabeth Seymour, daughter of Henry, lord Beauchamp, son of William, the second duke of Somerset, and at length length sole heir to her brother, William, third duke of Somerset; and by her had four sons and two daughters; whereof Mary died young, with whom her mother died in childbed; and Elizabeth, the eldest, was the wife of George Brudenell, earl of Cardigan. Of the sons, Robert, the eldest, Thomas, and Henry, all died young; but Charles, the second son, succeeded his father. To his second wife, Thomas, earl of Elgin and Aylesbury married Charlotte, countess of Sanner, of the house of Argenteau, in Brabant, and by her had an only daughter, Charlotte, who was married to the count of Horn, in Germany, by whom she had issue, Louisa-Maximiliana, princess of Stolberg, born Sept. 22, 1752; married, April 17, 1772, Charles-Edward-Philip-Louis Cassimer, eldest son of James-Francis-Edward Chevalier de St. George, the late pretender to the crown of these realms. Thomas, third earl, deceasing in 1741, was succeeded by Charles, the fourth earl, who had been called up to the house of peers by writ, in 1711, as lord Bruce, of Whorlton. In April, 1746, he was created Baron Bruce, of Tottenham, in Wiltshire, with remainder to his nephew, Thomas-Bruce Brudenell, the youngest son of George, earl of Cardigan, by Elizabeth Bruce; and his lordship dying, in February following, without male issue, the title of lord Bruce, of Tottenham, descended to his nephew, Thomas Brudenell, as aforesaid.

This earl married three wives; first, Anne Saville, eldest daughter, and coheir to William, marquis of Halifax, by whom he had two sons and two daughters, George, who died young; and Robert, who, marrying Frances, daughter of sir William Blacket, bart. died without issue. Mary was the first wife of the duke of Chandos, by whom she had issue the late duke, whose titles became extinct in Oct. 1789, by his death, without male heir; and Elizabeth married Benjamin Bathurst, esq. His second wife was Juliana Boyle, daughter of Charles, earl of Burlington, by whom he had no issue. His third was Caroline Campbell, only daughter of John, Duke of Argyll, by whom he had Mary, married to Charles, third duke of Richmond, K. G.; which Caroline, countess of Aylesbury, was afterwards married to general Henry-Seymour Conway, brother to Francis, first marquis of Hertford. Upon the decease of the late earl; Charles, earl of Eglin, and the ninth earl of Kincardine, succeeded William, the eighth earl of Kincardine, married Miss Robertson, only daughter of Mr. Robertson, one of the principal clerks of session, by whom he had Charles—James-Thomas a lieutenant-general in the army, died on Dec. 12, 1797—Rachael, who married, in Nov. 1778, John Milnes, esq.—Christian, who died unmarried, Feb. 23, 1775—His sister, Sarah, daughter of Thomas, earl of Kincardine, born in 1695, died in July, 1795. His lordship dying, in 1740, was succeeded by his son, Charles; who, upon the death of the fourth earl of Elgin, succeeded also to those honours. FRANCIS-CHARTERIS WEMYSS, EARL of WEMYSS, Baron Elcho, near Perth. Born in 1723, Married, in 1745, Catharine, daughter of Alexander, second duke of Gordon, by whom (who died in 1786) he had issue, Francis, lord Elcho, who married, in 1771, Susan, daughter of Anthony Tracey Keck, esq. by lady Susan Hamilton, daughter of the duke of Hamilton, by whom he has issue—Francis, married, May 31, 1794, Miss Margaret Campbell, and four daughters, viz.—Henrietta—Charlotte-Elizabeth, married, Dec. 23, 1797, lord Grey, son of Henry, earl of Stamford and Warrington—Susan, married, Nov. 23, 1799, lieutenant-colonel Henry Clinton—Catharine, married, in Nov. 1806, 1805, the hon Edward-Richard Stewart, son of John, eighth earl of Galloway, knight of the thistle—and Augusta. The earl has also four daughters, viz. Catharine—Janet—Frances—and Anne.

That the ancient and noble family of Wemyss is descended from the great Macduff, thane of Fife, who was the chief instrument of subduing the tyrant Macbeth, is the unanimous voice of all our antiquaries: for John, the younger son of the said thane, being lord of the barony of Wemyss, from thence his descendants assumed their surname. In 1290, sir David Wemyss, and sir Michael Scot, were sent to Norway, by the lords of the regency in Scotland, to bring over their young queen, Margaret; who, to the universal misfortune of the nation, died at the Orkneys, and thereupon happened the competition between Baliol and Bruce about the right of succession. In the time of king Robert I. the aforesaid sir David was one of those great men of the kingdom who wrote a letter to the Pope, asserting the independence of their country.

Sir John Wemyss, lord of that ilk, succeeded his brother David, who died without issue, about the year 1620. He was a man of great integrity and honour, and much esteemed by Charles I. who created him, by patent, a baronet, in 1625; he then raised him to the dignity of the peerage by the title of lord Wemyss, of Elcho, by patent, 1st April, 1628. His majesty was afterwards pleased further to dignify him with the titles of earl of Wemyss, lord Elcho, &c. June 25, 1633. Though he was a man of mild and moderate principles, he sided with the parliament, in the troublesome reign of Charles I. by Jane, daughter of lord Grey, he had one son and five daughters.

David, second earl, succeeded his father in 1649; he married, first, Jane, daughter of Robert, lord Burleigh, by whom he had one daughter, Jane, married, first, to Archibald, earl of Angus; secondly, to George, earl of Sutherland; she had issue by both. He married, secondly, lady Leonora Fleeming, daughter of the earl of Wigtoun, by whom he had no issue. By his third wife, lady Margaret Leslie, daughter of the earl of Rothes, he had one daughter, lady Margaret. The earl having no male issue, resigned his honour to his majesty, who gave him a new patent, with the former precedency, to and in favour of his daughter, Margaret, and the heir male of her body, Aug. 3, 1672. He died, 1680, and was succeeded in his estate and honours by his daughter, Margaret, countess of Wemyss, who married sir James Wemyss, of Caskierry, lineally descended of James, second son of sir David de Wemyss, lord of that ilk. He was created by Charles II. lord Burntisland, Aug. 18, 1672: he died in 1685, leaving issue, by the said countess, a son, David, and two daughters; Anne, married to David, earl of Leven; secondly, Margaret, married to David, earl of Northesk. Countess Margaret died, in 1705, and was succeeded by her son,

David, third earl, a man of the greatest honour and integrity, and one of the lords of the privy council to her majesty queen Anne. In 1706, he was constituted lord high admiral of Scotland, and was named one of the commissioners for the treaty of Union with England; afterwards he was appointed vice-admiral, which he enjoyed till the death of the queen. He sat as one of the sixteen peers in the first and second British parliaments. He married, first, lady Anne Douglas, daughter of William, first duke of Queensberry, by whom he had two sons—1. David, lord Elcho, a youth of great hopes and spirit, who died, unmarried, in the seventeenth year of his age, much lamented—2. James, afterwards earl of Wemyss. He married, secondly, Mary, daughter of sir John Robinson, of Faringwood, in Northamptonshire, bart. by Mary, his wife, daughter of sir William Dudley, of Clopton, bart. but had no issue. He married, thirdly, Elizabeth, daughter of Henry, lord Sinclair, by whom he had two daughters—1. lady Elizabeth, married to William, earl of Sutherland—2. lady Margaret, married to James, earl of Murray, and had issue. He died, in 1720, and was succeeded by James Wemyss, the late earl, and father of the present, in March, 1756, married the only daughter of colonel Francis Charteris, by whom (who died in 1778) he had three sons and four daughters. David, lord Elcho, joining in the rebellion, in 1745, was the next year attainted, with many others; and after the battle of Culloden, escaped into France, where he died, in 1787, with whom the dignity of the family was suspended; but leaving no issue, it descended to his brother, Francis-Charteris teris Wemyss, who enjoys the great estate of his grandfather, assumed his name, and is the present earl. James, who succeeded to the late earl's estate, married, Sept. 2, 1757, his cousin, lady Elizabeth Sutherland, daughter of William, earl of Sutherland, and sister, to the late earl, by whom he had a son and heir, born Oct. 8, 1758, and other children—Frances, married to sir James Stewart, bart. who died in 1789.—Walpole, married to M. Chastel de la Barte, a French gentleman of distinction.—Anne, married to John Hamilton, esq.—Helen, married to Hugh Dalrymple, esq. of Fordel.

Heir Apparent—Lord ELCHO, his Lordship's son.

BARONS.

JOHNSOMERVILLE, LORD SOMERVILLE. Succeeded his uncle, James, the late lord, April 17, 1796. A Lord of the King's Bedchamber.

The first of this name on record, is sir Gaultier de Somerville, lord of Whichnour, &c. in the county of Stafford, and Aston-Somerville, in the county of Gloucester, who came into England with William the Conqueror. He was ancestor of all the Somervilles in Great Britain. Sir Gaultier, his eldest son, succeeded him in his English estates; and William, his second son, contracted a friendship with king David I. of Scotland, when that prince was in England, and accompanied him into Scotland, where he appears to have been a frequent witness to the royal grants to religious houses. From him descended the Somervilles of Scotland. He died in 1162; and William de Somerville, his eldest son, distinguished himself by killing a monstrous serpent, which had ravaged the county of Roxburgh, and obtained from king William the Lion, the barony of Lintoun, toun. He left a son, William, who was one of the barons appointed by Alexander II. at his marriage, to exercise in a tournament, at the castle of Roxburgh. He left one daughter, married to sir Archibald Campbell, of Lochow; and one son, who succeeded him, which son, William, was knighted by Alexander III. for his gallant behaviour at the battle of Largo. He was succeeded by his son, sir Thomas, who was concerned in the treaty of marriage proposed between queen Margaret and prince Edward, of England, in 1290; he joined the brave sir William Wallace, in the defence of his country. Sir Walter, his eldest son, succeeded him in 1306, and joined king Robert Bruce, whom he never forsook in his greatest distress. He married Giles, daughter of sir John Herring, with whom he obtained the lauds of Drum, Gilmerton, and Goodtrees. He was succeeded by his eldest son, sir James, in 1330, who fell at the battle of Durham, and left no issue.

In 1346 he was succeeded by his brother, sir Thomas, one of the barons sent to England, in 1354, to treat about the liberty of king David. He married the daughter of James Douglas, of Loudon Hill and Caldercleir, ancestor of the earls of Morton: with her he obtained the barony of Carnwath, in Lanarkshire. He was succeeded by his eldest son, sir William, who was one of the sureties appointed for king David's ransom, in 1357. This sir William was succeeded, in 1403, by his eldest son, sir Thomas, who was one of the commissioners appointed to obtain the liberty of king James I. when a prisoner in England. He was a lord of parliament in 1422, and in 1429 he was created lord Somerville; he was lord justice-general south of the Forth; he married Janet, daughter of Alexander, lord Darnley, with whom he got the barony of Cambusnethen. He was succeeded by his eldest son, William, second lord, who was in great favour with king James I.: he married Janet, daughter of sir J. Mowat, of Stenhouse; and was succeeded by his eldest son, in 1456, John, third lord, who commanded the Clydesdale horse, at the battle of Sark, in 1749. He was also at the siege of Roxburgh, where king James II. was slain, 1460; he married Helen, daughter of Adam, lord Hails, and had issue a daughter, married to the eldest son of Duncan Campbell, of Lochow; and a son, William, who married a daughter of Hugh, lord Montgomery; but dying before his father, his son John, the fourth lord, succeeded his grandfather in 1491; and dying without issue, was succeeded in 1542, by his brother Hugh, the fifth lord, who was taken prisoner at the battle of Solway, and passed the time of his captivity in England, at Audley End, the seat of the earl of Suffolk; he married Janet, daughter of William Maitland, of Lethington; and was succeeded by his eldest son, James, the sixth lord, who married Agnes, daughter of lord Evandale, and dying in 1570, was succeeded by his eldest son, Hugh, seventh lord; he married Eleanor, daughter of George, lord Seaton; and his two eldest sons dying unmarried, his third son, Gilbert, eighth lord, succeeded in 1597. He sold the estates of Carnwath, Cambusnethen, and Cowthaly; and dying without issue, in the year 1619, was succeeded by his brother, Hugh, the ninth lord, who was one of the pages of honour to king James VI. The severe blow which the family had received from lord Gilbert's prodigality, induced him to decline claiming his title, which he therefore allowed to lie dormant. He married a daughter of Hamilton, of Raplock; and was succeeded by James, his eldest son, who married Lillias, daughter of sir James Bannatyne, of Newhall, and left a son, James, who married Martha, daughter of Bannatyne, of Corhouse; and James, his eldest son, married Elizabeth, daughter of G. Graham, esq. but unfortunately killed in his father's lifetime. in endeavouring to part two of his friends, who were fighting; his eldest son, James, succeeded his grandfather, and married a daughter of Murray, of Deuchar; he was succeeded by his eldest son, James, who claimed his peerage, and his title was allowed and confirmed by the house of lords in 1722, where he afterwards sat as one of the sixteen peers for Scotland. William Somerville, esq. the last of the English branch of the family, dying soon after, bequeathed to him the estate of Aston-Somerville, in Gloucestershire, which had been in the possession of the Somervilles since the conquest: which James, the twenty-fifth lord, married, first, Anne Bayntun, of Spy Park, Wilts, widow of Henry Rolt, of Sacomb Park, Herts; she was grand-daughter to Wilmot, earl of Rochester: by her he had issue, 1.

the late lord—2. Hugh, who has been twice married, first, to Elizabeth, only daughter of C. Lethbridge, esq. of Westaway, Devon, who died in 1765, and left one son, John, the present lord—he married, secondly, Mary, eldest daughter of the hon. Wriothlesley Digby, of Mereden, Warwickshire, who died Sept. 8, 1794, leaving issue four sons and four daughters—3. FRANCIS NAPIER, LORD NAPIER, of Merchiston, His Majesty's Lord High Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, Lord-lieutenant of Selkirkshire. Born Feb. 23, 1753. Succeeded his father, William, Jan. 2, 1775. Married, April 13, 1784, Maria-Margaret, eldest daughter of lieutenant-general sir John Clavering, Clavering, K. B. by whom he has issue, Mary-Magaret, born Sept. 9, 1785—William-John, born Oct. 13, 1786—Charlotte, born Jan. 18, 1788, and died June 6, 1789—Anne, born Dec. 11, 1789—Sophia, born Dec. 21, 1791—Francis, born July 30, 1793—Charles, born Oct. 24, 1794—a son, born June 1, 1797.

This family is said to be descended from the ancient thanes of Lennox, but took the name of Napier, from the following event:

One of the ancient earls of Lennox had three sons; the eldest succeeded him in the earldom; the second was named Donald; and the third Gilchrist. The then king of Scots being engaged in war, and having convoked his subjects to battle, the earl of Lennox was called on, amongst others, to send such forces as he could collect, to the king's assistance, which he accordingly did, keeping his eldest son with him at home, but putting his men under the command of his two younger sons. The battle went hard with the Scots, who were not only forced to lose ground, but were actually running away, when Donald snatched his father's standard from the bearer, charged the enemy with the Lennox men, changed the fortune of the day, and obtained a victory. After the battle, as the custom was, every one reported his acts, when the king said, "Ye have all done valiantly, but there is one amongst you who hath nae pier," (that is no equal;) and calling Donald to him, commanded him to change his name from Lennox to Napier, and bestowed upon him the lands of Gosford, and lands in Fife, as a reward for his services.

John Napier, "to whom," says Mr. Hume, the celebrated historian, "the title of Great Man is more justly due, than to any other whom his country ever produced," was the inventor of the Logarithms and Robdologice, commonly called "Napier's Bones." He was, likewise, author of a treatise on the Revelation of St. John. These works will remain lasting monuments of his sublime judgment, knowledge, and penetration. He was twice married, first to Elizabeth, daughter of sir James Sirling, of Kier, by whom he had one son, Archibald, afterwards lord Napier, and one daughter, Joane. By his second wife, Agnes, daughter of James Chisholme, of Cromlix, he had five sons and five daughters.

daughters, viz. John, of Easter Torrie—Robert, ancestor of the Napiers of Calreuch—Alexander, of Ginets—William, of Ardmore, from whom the Napiers of Craiganet are descended—Adam, progenitor of the Napiers of Blackstone—Margaret, married to James Stewart, of Rosyth—Jane, married to James Hamilton, of Kilbrachmont—Elizabeth, married to William Cunningham, of Craighends—Agnes, married to George Drummond, of Balloch—and Helen, married to the rev. Matthew Brisbane.

John Napier died, anno 1617, in the 67th year of his age, and was succeeded by his eldest son, sir Archibald Napier, knight, who was, for many years, gentleman of the privy chamber to king James VI. and attended his majesty when he went to England to take possession of that kingdom on the death of queen Elizabeth.—He was made one of the privy council, 1615, treasurer-deputy of Scotland, 1622, lord justice clerk, and one of the judges of the court of session 1623. King Charles I. appointed him an extraordinary lord of session 1626; and a regulation having taken place, that the officers of state should not sit as ordinary judges in that court, created him a baronet, March 2, and then advanced him to the title of lord Napier, to him and his heirs male, May 4, 1627. He was a steady loyalist, and invariably attached to the interests of his sovereign, which rendered him very obnoxious to the Covenanters, who threatened to forfeit him after his death, which happened in 1645: the forfeiture was prevented by his family paying a considerable fine. He married lady Margaret Graham, daughter of John, fourth earl of Montrose, and sister to the first marquis of Montrose, by whom he had issue one son, Archibald, and two daughters; Margaret, married to sir George Stirling, of Keir; and Lillias.

Archibald, second lord Napier, distinguished himself in the civil wars, under his uncle the great marquis of Montrose. He was particularly excepted in Cromwell's Act of Indemnity, 1654, and died in Holland, where he had retired from the persecution of his enemies, anno 1660, leaving issue by his wife, lady Elizabeth Erskine, daughter of John, eighth earl of Marr, two sons and three daughters, viz. Archibald, his heir—John, killed in a sea-fight against the Dutch, 1672—Jane, married to sir Thomas Nicholson, of Garnoch, (whose son succeeded to the honours of Napier)—Margaret, who carried on the line of the family, as will be seen hereafter—and Matv.

Archibald, third lord Napier, obtained a new patent from king Charles II. dated Feb. 7, 1677, confirming the original patent of the peerage of Napier to himself and his heirs male, further granting the honours to his heirs female, and their heirs male and female, then to his sisters in succession, and their heirs whatsoever, with the precedency of the original patent granted to the first lord Napier. This lord dying a bachelor, in 1683, was succeeded by his nephew, sir Thomas Nicholson, of Garnoch, only child of his eldest sister.

Thomas, fourth lord Napier, dying under age, without issue, was succeeded by his aunt, Margaret, who became baroness of Napier. Her ladyship married John Brisbane, esq. resident from king Charles II. at the court of France, and secretary to the admiralty, by whom she had one son, John, who was bred in the navy, and who died on board the Depeford man of war, on the coast of Guirea, 1704; and one daughter, Elizabeth, who married, anno 1699, William Scott, (afterwards sir William) son and heir of sir Francis Scott, of Thirlestane, bart. by whom she had one son, Francis, afterwards lord Napier; and two daughters, Margaret—Anne-Isabella-Elizabeth. Margaret, lady Napier, dying anno 1706, (her daughter Elizabeth having died the year before) was succeeded by her grandson.

Francis, who became the fifth lord Napier, and assumed the surname of Napier, in consequence of a clause in the last-named patent. He married, first, lady Henrietta Hope, daughter of Charles, first earl of Hoptoun; and by her he had issue five sons and a daughter—William, his heir—Charles, a captain in the navy, who married Grizel, daughter of sir John Warrander, of Lochend, bart.; and secondly, Christian, daughter of Gabriel Hamilton, of Westburn, esq. —Francis, a lieutenant-colonel of marines, married Elizabeth, daughter of John Greenaway, esq. of Portsmouth, died 1779 —John, a lieutenant of foot, died in Germany 1759 —Mark, a major-general in the army, married, first, Anne, daughter of John Nelson, esq. of Craiggaffe; and, secondly, Margaret, daughter of Alexander Simpson, esq. of Concraig—Henrietta, died an infant. His lordship married, secondly, Mary, daughter of George Johnston, esq. of Dublin, by whom (who died Sept. 25, 1795) he had issue five sons and three daughters; George, a colonel in the army, married, first, Elizabeth, daughter of captain Pollock, of the 61st regiment of foot; and, secondly, lady Sarah Lennox, daughter of Charles, second duke of Richmond, and died Oct. 13, 1804—James, died in 1760—Patrick, a captain in the navy—James-John, a lieutenant of marines, killed on board the Fox frigate, in 1776—Stewart, a lieutenant of marines, died in 1778—Elizabeth, died an infant—Hester, married to Samuel Johnston, esq. who died 1801, and left issue one son, Alexander, procurator fiscal, in the island of Ceylon, and two daughters—and Mary died in 1765. His lordship was one of the lords of police in Scotland, and dying April 11, 1773, aged 69, was succeeded by his eldest son, William, sixth lord, who married Mainie-Anne, daughter of Charles, eighth lord Cathcart, by whom he had one son, Francis, and four daughters; Mainie-Schaw, married the rev. Andrew Hunter, D. D. died in Oct. 1806—Henrietta—Mary—Elizabeth, died in 1778—and Jane-Wilhelmina, died in 1779. His lordship was lieutenant colonel in the army, and deputy-adjutant-general of the forces in North Britain, and dying Jan 2, 1775, aged 44, was succeeded by his son, Francis, the seventh and present lord.

Heir Apparent—WILLIAM-JOHN, eldest son of his Lordship.

WALTER HUTCHINSON ASTON, LORD ASTON, of Forfar, in the county of Forfar, and a Baronet; in holy orders. Succeeded his father, Walter, the late lord, July 29, 1805. Married, June 14, 1802, Elizabeth, daughter of the rev. Dr. Haimes, by Susannah, his wife, sister of the late sir John Chudleigh, of the county of Devon, bart.

Of this ancient family, which is of English extraction, was Ralph de Aston, in the county of Stafford, to whose son, Robert, in the time of king Henry III. 1260, Roger de Moland, bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, gave the keeping of the game in Canckwood, and a seat in the manor of Haywood, both in that county.

To the said Robert, whose wife was Sibyl, daughter of James de Landa, succeeded sir John, their son, who, in the 7th of Edward III. was knight of the shire for the county of Stafford, as in the 18th and 32d, was Roger, his son, who was father of sir John, and he of sir Thomas, the last of whom often served in parliament for that county, and in the 10th of Henry IV. was sheriff thereof. He married Elizabeth, sister and heir to Reginald de Leigh, son of Richard, son of Reginald, lord of Parkhall, with whom he had a great estate.

Sir Roger, their son, in the 12th of Henry IV. was one of the prime gentry, returned by the commissioners for the county; and he, marrying Joyce, sister and coheir to Baldwin de Frevile, whose ancestors had been barons of parliament, and were heirs general to the noble families of Marmon and Montfort, of Beaudesert, by her had,

Roger, his heir, who marrying Isabel, daughter of sir William Brereton, of the county of Chester, had a son,

John, who, in the time of king Edward IV. and Richard III. was sheriff of Staffordshire; and he marrying Elizabeth, daughter of John Delves, of Doddington, esq. by her was father of

Sir John Aston, who, at the marriage of prince Arthur, eldest son of king Henry VII. was created knight of the bath. In the 4th of Henry VIII. he went in the expedition into Brittany, and assisted that king in the siege of Terouaine and Tournay, as also at the battle of Spurs, 1513, when, for his conduct and bravery, he was made a knight banneret in the open field; and marrying Joan, daughter of sir William Littleton, by Helen, his wife, daughter and coheir to Robert Welsh, lord of Wanlip, in the county of Leicester, he by that marriage possessed the said manor of Wanlip, and the lordship of Tixall, in the county of Stafford, the latter being purchased by the Littletons. He had two sons, sir Edward, his heir, and William:

Sir Edward, who had been several times sheriff for his own county, dying in 1568, left by Joan, his wife, daughter of sir Thomas Bowles, baron of the exchequer, sir Walter, his heir, and three daughters—Katharine, married, first, to Stephen Stanley, esq.; secondly, to sir William Chetwynd, of Ingestree, in the county of Stafford; and, thirdly, to sir Edward Cope, of Cannons-Ashby, in Northamptonshire—Mary, to Simon Harcourt, of Stanton-Harcourt, in the county of Oxford, ancestor to the earls of that name—and Frances, to Robert Needham, of Shenton, in the county of Leicester, ancestor to the viscounts Kilmorey, in Ireland.

Sir Walter, who succeeded his father, dying in 1589, left by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of sir James Leveson, sir Edward,

Edward, his heir, and Margery, married to Thomas Astley, of Pateshul, in the county of Stafford, esq.

Sir Edward was sheriff of Staffordshire, an office which all his ancestors had served from the time of king Edward III. He married, first, Mary, daughter of sir John Spencer, ancestor of the dukes of Marlborough; secondly, Anne, daughter of sir Thomas Lucy, knight, by whom he had a daughter, Anne, married to Ambrose Elton, of the Halse, in the county of Hereford, esq.; and Sir Walter, first lord, who succeeded him, and at the coronation of king James I. of England, was made a knight of the bath, and in 1611, created a baronet. In 1622, being then in a public character at the court of Madrid, he was commissioned with John Digby, earl of Bristol, to conclude a marriage treaty between Charles, prince of Wales, and the eldest daughter of that crown; and to support the glory of his country, he spent there the greater part of his estate: but though that marriage was defeated, the said sir Walter, after his return, was by Charles I. for his good services, created a peer. He married Gertrude, daughter of sir Ralph Sadler, of Standon, in the county of Hertford; and dying in 1639, was succeeded by his eldest son.

Walter, the second lord, who during the civil war, living in the garrisons of the king, and at the siege of Lichfield, being joined in commission with sir Thomas Tildesley the governor, they sent a trusty servant with a letter to the king at Newcastle, which being delivered safe, he returned with the following answer:

“ Newcastle, June 6, 1646.

MY LORD ASTON AND TILDESLEY,

“ The greatest of my misfortunes is, that I cannot reward such gallant and loyal subjects as you are, as I ought or would. For the present I must deal freely with you, which is, that I can give you no relief; but I desire you to hold out till Oxford be surrendered, which will be ranked among the rest of the good services done by you to

“ Your assured friend,

Oxford being surrendered in June, and no conditions made for them, they made the best they could for themselves, which was only a permission to go home and compound for their estates.

Tildesley and lord Widrington were killed in the fight with colonel Lilburn 1651, when he routed the earl of Derby in Wigan Lane: but the lord Aston lived in retirement till the king's restoration. He married lady Mary Weston, daughter of Richard, earl of Portland, lord treasurer of England, by whom he had Walter, his heir, and several daughters, whereof Frances was second wife of sir Edward Gage, of Hangrave, in Suffolk, bart.

Walter, who was the third lord, dying in Nov. 1714, left by Eleanor, his wife, daughter of sir Walter Blount, of Soddington, in the county of Worcester, bart. widow of Robert Knightley, of Off-church, in the county of Warwick, esq.

Walter, the fourth lord, who married lady Mary Howard, the only sister to Thomas, duke of Norfolk, and by her (who died in 1723) had several children. His lordship dying in 1746, was succeeded by his son,

James, the fifth lord, who married lady Barbara Talbot, daughter of George, 14th earl of Shrewsbury; and dying in Aug. 1751, leaving only two daughters (Mary, married to sir Walter Blount; and Barbara, to the hon. Thomas Clifford) the title devolved, agreeably to the patent, upon the decendant of William Aston, of Milwich, uncle to the first lord. The said William married Elizabeth, daughter of Waldive Willington de Hurley, and died in 1628, leaving a son, Edward, who, by Dorothy, daughter of Richard Eld de Seighford, had four sons—Walter—William—Edward—Richard. Walter married Mary, daughter of John Chetwynd de Rudge, and died 1691, leaving one daughter, married to John Dive, esq.—William and Richard died without issue.—Edward married Prudence King, and died in 1705, leaving issue, two sons, Walter and Edward. Walter married Penelope, daughter of John Whufield, esq. and died in 1722, leaving two sons, Philip and Walter: of whom

Philip, sixth lord, the eldest, being the heir male of this branch of the family, became heir; and dying unmarried, in 1755, the honour devolved upon his brother,

Walter, seventh lord, who dying also without male heirs, in 1763, the title devolved upon the son of Edward, uncle to the two last lords,

Walter, eighth lord, who married Miss Anne Hutchinson, by whom he had issue, 1. Elizabeth-Jane, who died young—2. Walter Hutchinson, the present lord—3. William Bailey, who was lost at sea, aboard the Foulis East-Indiaman. His lordship died July 29, 1805, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Walter Hutchinson, the present and ninth lord.

SHOLTO-HENRY M'CLELLAN, LORD KIRK-CUDBRIGHT. Born Aug. 15, 1771. Succeeded his father, John, the late lord, Dec. 24, 1801.

In the reign of king James II. a gang of Moors landing on the coast, and infesting the county of Galloway, that king issued a proclamation, that whoever would disperse them, and bring their captain, dead or alive, should have the barony of Bomby for his reward; whereupon the laird of Bomby's son raising a body of his friends and relations, dispersed the banditti, slew their captain, and brought his head to the king, reminding him to think on his promise; from whence, to perpetuate the memory of that brave action, the king gave him for his crest, a Moor's head on the point of a sword, with the motto, Think on. To him, who thus regained the barony, succeeded Thomas M'Ciellan, of Bomby, who, in the reigns of king James III. and IV. was very serviceable to the crown on several occasions; and marrying Agnes, daughter of sir James Dunbar, of Mochrum, by her had two sons; William, who succeeded; and Gilbert, who acquired the lands of Grange, of Sannick.

Sir William, who obtained many lands in Galloway from James IV. and married Elizabeth, a daughter of the family of Muir, and being slain at the battle of Flowden, in 1513, with the said king James, left Thomas, his heir, who was killed in 1516, in a feud, in the High-street of Edinburgh, by the barons of Drumlanrig and Lochinvar.

Thomas, his son, succeeding, enjoyed the estate of Bomby till after the year 1600; he married Grizel, daughter of John Maxwell, lord Herries, and had three sons; Robert, William, and John.—Robert, first lord, the eldest, was knighted by king James VI. to whom, and king Charles I. he was gentleman of the bed-chamber; and by letters patent under the great seal of Scotland, dated June 25, 1633, was created a baron; but dying without issue, the honour descended to his nephew, Thomas, the son of his brother, William, the second lord; which Thomas marrying lady Jane Douglas, daughter of William, the first earl of Queensberry, and dying without issue, also, the title descended to John M'Clellan, the third lord of Barg, son of John, who was younger brother to the first lord; he married Anne, daughter of sir Robert Maxwell, of Orchardton, and dying in 1665, left a son, William, the fourth lord, who dying three years after, unmarried, the dignity, for want of support, lay dormant, till 1722, when he was succeeded by his uncle's son, James M'Ciellan, the fifth lord, who made claim to the peerage in 1729; but dying without issue, in 1734, he was succeeded by his cousin, William, the sixth lord, who married Margaret Murray, and dying in 1776, was succeeded by John, the seventh, and late lord, whose title was confirmed by the house of peers, May 3, 1773; he married Miss Bannister, of the county of Hants, by whom (who died June 15, 1807) he had issue, Elizabeth, born April 18, 1769; married, May 21, 1793, to Finlay Ferguson, esq.—Sholto-Henry, the present lord—Camden-Grey, born April 20, 1774. His lordship deceasing Dec. 24, 1801, was succeeded by his eldest son, Sholto-Henry, eighth, and present lord.

CHARLES KINNAIRD, LORD KINNAIRD, of Insture, in the county of Perth. Born April 8, 1780. Succeeded his father, George, the late lord, Oct. 16, 1805. Married, May 8, 1806, lady Olivia-Letitia-Catharine Fitzgerald, youngest daughter of William-Robert, the second duke of Leinster, K. P.

The family of Kinnaird is of Norman origin, and came into England with William the Conqueror, and have held many places of honour and trust in Scotland, which they discharged with the utmost fidelity.

The principal seat of the family is at Drimmie, near Perth, in the Carse of Gowry, where the late lord intended building a magnificent mansion, which his premature death prevented. No situation has more natural beauties, the scenery being delightful, and the views grand. Although lord Kinnaird is acknowledged the head of the family of Kinnaird, Kinnaird, yet there have been several of the name, eminent in Scotland: Thomas Kinnaird, esq. of Cowben, enjoyed from his ancestors a plentiful fortune in the county of Murray, N. B. which, in point of situation, and richness of soil, was inferior to none. As this estate was destroyed in a most extraordinary manner, it may be gratifying to the reader to learn the particulars, which are extracted from Pennant's Tour to Scotland: "Surrounding the estate of the above Thomas Kinnaird, esq. were several large hills, which were covered with what the Scots call bent, but more properly star-wort; it is a sea-weed, or grass, in high estimation among the lower orders of people as a thatch for their houses, being more lasting than straw or reed; had they been content with the mere culling it, no injury could have accrued; but having, in the absence of the family, assembled in large numbers, they began pulling it by the roots, which loosening the soil, a perfect bed of sand was carried by the winds in every direction; whole fields, with the family mansion, gardens, and orchards, were entirely covered with sand to the depth of many feet; and this estate, which would have produced fifteen hundred pounds per annum, is now lost to the family for ever. An act was passed, which is still in force, to prevent the pulling this grass by the roots; and it is to be lamented that this act had not been in force, which would have prevented this melancholy circumstance. This calamity happened about a century and a half ago. Though the estate of Cowben was then destroyed, yet it pleased the Almighty Disposer of all events to preserve the family from destruction." The above Thomas Kinnaird, esq. had a daughter, Elizabeth, married Hugh Rose, esq. of the ancient family of Rose, of Kilravock Castle, by whom she had a daughter, Jean, who married George Watson, esq. of Ballentyne House, in the county of Forfar, one of his majesty's justices of the peace, a man most justly and universally esteemed; they had by this marriage several children; James, the eldest, married Charlotte Poole, daughter of John Poole, esq. of Somersetshire, and has issue; 1. James-Stewart-Mackenzie; 2. Rose-Charlotte-Caroline; and 3. George-John. The family of Kinnaird, of Cowben, is represented by the

George Kinnaird being of great service to king Charles II. was by that monarch, at his restoration, made one of the privy council; and created, in 1682, baron Kinnaird, of Insture, in the county of Perth; married Margaret, daughter of James Crichton, esq. of Ruthven, by whom he had six sons; and deceasing, was succeeded by the eldest son, Patrick, married, and had issue two sons; the issue of both failed in 1758, when the title descended to Charles, the sixth lord, grandson of George, the first lord, who succeeded to the title on the death of Charles, the fifth lord, who died, unmarried, in 1758: Charles, sixth lord, married Barbara, daughter of sir James Johnstone, bart. sister to the late sir William Pulteney, father of Henrietta-Laura Pulteney, countess of Bath, by whom he had issue, George, the seventh lord—Patrick, who was unfortunately killed by a tyger, on the coast of Africa—Elizabeth, married, in July 1779, Thomas Wiggins, esq. who died in July 1800, leaving issue, Lewis, married at Calcutta, July 21, 1805, Miss Maria M'Arthur; and Elizabeth, married, first, John Buller, esq. which marriage was dissolved by act of parliament; and, secondly, — Stewart, esq.; Helen, married the rev. Mr. Dana, and by her (who died April 21, 1795) had issue two sons, George Kinnaird, a lieutenant-colonel in the army, and a lieutenant-colonel of the sixth garrison battalion; and Henry, died June 6, 1798—Margaret. His lordship died Aug. 1, 1767, and was succeeded by his son, George, the seventh lord, married, July 23, 1777, Elizabeth, daughter and sole heir of Griffin Ransom, esq. of New Palace Yard, Westminster, and by her (who died Oct. 21, 1805) had issue, George-William Ransom, died Feb. 12, 1779—Charles, the present lord—Eliza, born May 12, 1781—Henry, died July 21, 1784—Edward-Griffin, died in July 1803—Georgiana-Mary-Anne, born Oct. 25, 1786—Douglas-James-William, born Feb. 26, 1788—Frederick-John-Hay, born May 30, 1789—Laura-Margaretta, born Oct. 6, 1791—and Amelia-Barbara, died Jan. 9, 1794. His lordship died Oct. 11, 1805, and was succeeded by his eldest son, George, the eighth lord.

Round the crest—Loyal au mort—Loyal in death.

EARLS.

WALTER BUTLER, EARL of ORMOND and OSORY, Viscount Thurles, Baron of Arklow, in Ireland, and a Peer of Great Britain, by the title of Lord Butler, of Llanthony, Knight of St. Patrick. Born in 1770. Succeeded his father, John, the late earl, Jan. 30, 1796. Married, March 17, 1805, Anne, only daughter and heiress of Joseph-Pryce Clarke, esq. by Anne, sole heiress of Godfrey Clarke, of Sutton Hall, Derbyshire, esq.

Sir Walter Butler, in 1614, became the eleventh earl of Ormond, &c. He married Helena, daughter of the second viscount Mountgarret, by whom he had three sons and nine daughters. Lord Thurles, the eldest son, was unfortunately drowned in his passage from England, in 1618, leaving issue, by Elizabeth, daughter of sir John Pointz, bart three sons and four daughters: James, the eldest, was created marquis of Ormond, in 1642, and to the English titles of Baron BUTLER, of Llanthony, and Earl of BRECKNOCK, in 1660, and

and in 1661, to that of Duke of ORMOND, in Ireland, and to the same title and dignity in England, in 1677, and died in 1686; he had issue eight sons and two daughters; Richard, the fifth son, was created earl of Arran, viscount of Tullough, and baron Butler, of Cloughgrenan, whose titles became extinct in 1685—John, the seventh son of the duke, was created earl of Gowran, but he died without issue in 1677, when the title became extinct—the eldest daughter married Philip second earl of Chesterfield; and the second daughter married William first duke of Devonshire—Thomas, earl of Ossory, the eldest surviving son of the duke, rendered himself very conspicuous in the navy, army, and cabinet: he was summoned in the lifetime of his father, by writ, to the English parliament, by the title of lord Butler, of More Park; but died before his father, leaving issue two sons and three daughters, viz. James, who became second duke of Ormond; and, after a variety of events, both in favour and opposition to the ruling powers under whom he lived, at last was attainted by parliament, and retired to France in 1718, where he died in 1746; his estate having been seized by the crown, his brother, the earl of Arran, was enabled, by act of parliament, to purchase them, which he accordingly did: he left no male issue, and his daughters died also without issue male. Elizabeth, the eldest daughter of Thomas, earl of Ossory, married the earl of Derby; but her issue deceased in 1732, in the person of lady Henrietta Ashburnham, only surviving issue of William, earl of Derby—Amelia, married the earl of Grantham, by whom she had two sons and three daughters—Henrietta, married, July 27, 1732, William, second earl Cowper, who prefixed the surname of Clavering to that of Cowper—Charles, the youngest son, was created baron of Cloughgrenan, viscount Tullough, and earl of Arran, in 1693, and a baron of England, by the title of lord Butler, of Weston. His lordship bore several stations in the army, and in 1712 was master of the ordnance, which he resigned on the death of queen Anne; and in 1715 was elected chancellor of Oxford, and lord high steward of Westminster. JAMES DUFF, EARL of FIFE, Viscount, Macduff, Baron Braco, of Kilbryde, in the county of Cavan. His lordship was created an English peer, by the title of Baron Fife, in Great Britain; Lord Lieutenant of Bamffshire. He succeeded his father, William, the late earl, Sept. 30, 1768. Married, in 1766, lady Dorothea Sinclair, sole heiress of Alexander, ninth earl of Caithness by lady Margaret Primrose, daughter of Archibald, fourth earl of Roseberry.

This noble family is derived from Fyfe Macduff, who was a man of vast wealth and power, in the reign of king Kenneth II. of Scotland; and gave that prince great assistance in his wars with the Picts, about the year 834. On their reduction in 840, king Kenneth gave to this Macduff, in reward of his services all the lands then called Othelinia, which he himself had conquered from the Picts, and which extended from Fifencs to Clackmannan, from east east to west, and from the river Furth on the south, to the rivers Tay and Erne on the north. Of this tract of land, which he called Fife, he was appointed hereditary thane, or baron; and this dignity was enjoyed by his posterity in a direct line to Macduff, the eighth thane, who after was earl of Fife. He was one of the most powerful subjects in Scotland, in the time of Macbeth, and consequently was much dreaded by that usurper, whom it is well known he killed with his own hand; and having greatly contributed to the restoration of king Malcolm Canmore, that king confirmed to him his county of Fife, and created him earl thereof, in 1057 or 1061. He likewise conferred on him and his posterity many other privileges, and amongst them, to have the honour of placing the kings of Scotland in the chair of state at their coronation; that he and his family should lead the van of the royal army in the day of battle; and that, if any of his kindred, within the ninth degree, should be guilty of manslaughter, he should be free, on flying to the sanctuary of Cross Macduff, and paying 24 marks of silver for the death of a gentleman, or 12 for a plebeian. The time of this great man's death is not certainly known: but his lineal descendant, Duncan,

The thirteenth earl of Fife, having deceased, without male issue, in 1353, we shall here proceed with the line of David Duff, his grandson, who lived towards the close of the fourteenth century. The said David, from whom this noble lord directly descends, had a grant from king Robert III. dated Feb. 3, 1404, of the lands and barony of Muldavit and Baldavie, in the shire of Banff; besides which he possessed the lands of Craighead, Auchingrie, Darbreich, Fendachiefield, and others; and the barony of Muldavit continued to be one of the chief titles of the family, until alienated in the beginning of the reign of Charles I.: he married Mary, daughter of — Chalmers, and had John Duff, of Muldavit and Craighead (whose monument, dated July 2, 1404, is in the mausoleum at Duff-house) the father of John, his successor there; to whom, upon his father's resignation, the estates were confirmed by the letters patent of James II. of Scotland, as they were upon his death, to his son John, by king James III. April 13, 1482; when John died in the year 1500, leaving his son, Andrew, his heir; who,

who, in 1504, obtained a further confirmation of the estates from James IV. and married Helen, grand-daughter of John Hay, lord of the forests of Aboyne, Euzie, and Fullyboral, by whom he had two sons, sir George, his heir; and John, who died unmarried. He built an aisle in the church of Cullen, yet called Duff's aisle, and granted certain lands for its support. Sir George Duff being bred to the church, acquired considerable benefices; and by patent, dated July 10, 1515, obtained the lands of Castlefield and others. He died in 1519, and was succeeded by his eldest son, John Duff, of Muldavit, Craighead, and Castlefield; who, by precept from the chancery of Scotland, was invested in those lands, May 16, 1520, as heir to his father. He left two sons, viz. sir George, who died unmarried; and John, heir to his brother, to whom the estate was confirmed, Nov. 26, 1550. This noble family is of great antiquity, as appears from the title deed of their estate, granted by William the Conqueror, part of which estate, with the mansion-house, the present earl of Moira still enjoys. The following lines are taken taken from the original deed, mentioned in Weaver's Fa-neral Monuments:

I. William, King, the thurd yere of my reign,
As truly as this king right is inyn;
Give to thee PAULYN-Roydon, Hope and Hope-to-wine,
With all the bounds, both up and downe,
From heven to yerthe, from yerthe to hel,
For the and thyne, there to dwel,
For a cross-bowe and a arrow,
When I sal come to hunt on Yarrow.
And in token that this thing is sooth,
I bite the whyt wax with my tooth,
Before Meg, Maud, and Margery,
And my thurd sonne, Henry.

Sir John Rawdon, the fourth baronet, in March 1717, married Dorothy, second daughter of sir Richard Levinge, knt. and bart. speaker of the house of commons, in Ireland, and afterwards chief justice of the common pleas, in Ireland, and heir to sir Richard, above-mentioned; and dying
Feb. 2, 1724, in the 34th year of his age, had issue by her,

And on the 11th of March, 19 Jac. 1. he was created viscount Valentia, in the county of Kerry, in Ireland, to him and his heirs male, to hold immediately after the death of Henry Power, lord viscount Valentia, without heirs male of his body; and was also, by king James I. created baron Mountnorris, of Mountnorris, in the county of Armagh, in Ireland, and to the heirs male of his body. For the particulars of the extraordinary court martial held upon him by order of the earl of Strafford, then lord lieutenant of Ireland, whereby he was sentenced to lose his head, and which was the fifth article of the impeachment of the said earl, see Collins's Peerage, 1756, vol. 3.

This Francis, lord Mountnorris, and who, on the death of the said Henry Power, became lord viscount Valentia, died in the year 1660, and was buried the 23d of Nov. in that year, in the chancel of the church of Thorgaurby, in the east riding of Yorkshire; had issue by his first wife, Dorothy, daughter to sir John Philips, of Picton Castle, in the county of Pembroke, bart. Arthur Annesley, his eldest son, who, on his father's death, succeeded him in his honours of baron Mountnorris and viscount Valentia, and premier baronet of Ireland: he made a considerable figure, in the reign of king Charles I. and II. and on the 20th of April, 13 Cha. II. 1661, was created a baron of England, by the title of lord Annesley, of Newport Pagnel, in the county of Bucks; and also, at the same time, advanced to the degree of an English earl, by the title of earl of Anglesey, (an island in Wales) and to the heirs male of his body, in consideration, as is expressed in his patent, of his signal services for the king's restoration, as also for the eminent services of sir Francis Annesley, bart. baron of Mountnorris, and viscount Valentia, (father of the said Arthur) in the office of vice treasurer and principal secretary of state in Ireland; and afterwards he had the great office of lord privy seal conferred on him April 22, 1673—[See a full account of him in Collins's Peerage.] His lordship departed this life on the sixth of April 1686, and by his wife, Elizabeth, one of the two daughters and coheirs of sir James Altham, of Oxey, in the county of Hertford, knt. (one of the barons of the exchequer) had issue by her seven sons, viz. James, lord Annesley—Altham—Richard—Arthur, who died unmarried—Charles, and two others, who died in their childhood; whereof Altham, the second son, on Feb. 14, 1680, 33 Charles II. was created baron of Altham, in Ireland, with limitation of that honour to his younger brothers. The said Altham, lord Altham, dying without issue, the title devolved on his next brother, Richard Annesley, the third son of Arthur, earl of Anglesey.

The said James, lord Annesley, succeeded his father, and took his seat in parliament as earl of Anglesey, on the 10th of May 1686 : he married lady Elizabeth Manners, daughter to John, earl of Rutland, and left issue by her three sons, James, John, and Arthur, and died in the year 1690. James, his eldest son and heir, succeeded him, and was married in king Henry the Seventh's chapel, in Westminster Abbey, on Oct. 28, 1699, to the lady Catharine Darnley, sister to the queens Mary and Anne, she being the natural daughter of king James the Second, by Catharine, countess of Dorchester, only daughter of sir Charles Sedley, bart. : and who, on the death of the said James, earl of Anglesey, married John, duke of Buckingham and Normandy.— The said James, earl of Anglesey, had issue by the said lady Catharine Darnley, one daughter, Catharine, born Jan. 7, 1700 ; and married, in Sept. 1718, to William Phipps, esq. son and heir to sir Constantine Phipps, lord chancellor of Ireland. His lordship died January 18, 1701-2; and was buried at Farnborough, in the county of Southampton, and was succeeded by John, his brother; which John, fourth earl of Anglesey, on the 21st of May, 1706, married the lady Henrietta Stanley, eldest daughter and coheir of William-Richard-George, ninth earl of Derby; by whom he left issue one daughter, Elizabeth, who died in her infancy; and departing this life on Sept. 18, 1710, was also buried at Farnborough, and was succeeded by Arthur, his only surviving brother; which Arthur, earl of Anglesey, was joint vice-treasurer of Ireland, with Henry, earl of Clarendon and Rochester; and on the death of queen Anne, he was made, by king George I. one of the lord justices till his return from Hanover; and on the death of the duke of Manchester, was, on Feb. 9, 1701-2, elected high steward of the university of Cambridge, where he had his education, and was one of their representatives in three several parliaments whilst he was a commoner. His lordship married Mary, daughter of John Thompson, lord Haversham, by whom he had no issue, and dying on March 31, 1637, was also buried at Farnborough. The male issue of James, the eldest son of Arthur, first earl of Anglesey, becoming extinct by the death of the last-mentioned Arthur, earl of Anglesey.

We now treat of the other sons of Arthur, first earl of Anglesey, viz. Altham, his second son (who was created baron of Altham in Ireland) left issue, an only son, George-James, who died in his infancy; whereupon the title of lord Altham fell to Richard Annesley, third son to Arthur, first earl of Anglesey; which Richard, lord Altham, was, on April 7, 1681, installed dean of Exeter; and dying in 1701, was, on Nov. 25, in that year, buried in Westminster Abbey. He married Dorothy, daughter of — Davy, esq. of the county of Devon, and left issue by her two sons, Arthur and Richard, and one daughter, Elizabeth, married to Maurice, lord Haversham. Arthur, the eldest son, married Mary Sheffield, a natural daughter of John, duke of Buckingham and Normandy, and dying without issue in the year 1727, was succeeded in the title of lord Altham, by Richard, his brother and heir; and who also, on the death of Arthur, earl of Anglesey, in 1737, succeeded to the English honours of earl of Anglesey, and baron Annesley, of Newport Pagnel, and to the other Irish honours of viscount Valentia, and baron Mountnorris: which Richard, earl of Anglesey, and baron Annesley, of Newport Pagnel, in Great Britain, and viscount Valentia, baron Mountnorris, and baron Altham, in Ireland, on the 24th of Jan. 1715, married, in the parish church of Northam, Anne, daughter to captain John Prust, of Monkley, near Biddeford in Devonshire, who was an heiress, and brought him a considerable fortune; but who died without issue on the 13th of Aug. 1748, and was buried at Monkley. His lordship having been separated from his lady several years before her death, and at the time of her death received an express in Wales, on his way to Ireland, giving him an account of that event, immediately left Wales, and returned to Ireland, accompanied by the rev. L. Neil, his lordship's chaplain; and on the 15th Sept. 1741, he was married to Juliana Donovan, by the said L. Neil, at his lordship's principal seat at Camolin Park, in the county of Wexford; she was then about the age of 17, extremely beautiful, and highly accomplished, and a lady of an ancient and respectable family, and had resided with her mother in the town of Camolin, near his lordship's seat: Her mother's maiden name was Nixon, a very respectable family, who possessed considerable estates in that county. Richard, earl of Anglesey, died on Feb. 4, 1761, leaving issue by his wife, Juliana, countess of Anglesey, only one son, Arthur, viscount Valentia, the present earl, and three daughters; 1. lady Richarda, married, July 1761, Robert Phaire, of Temple Shannon, and died in 1807—2. lady Juliana, married sir Frederick Flood, bart. of Newtown Ormond, in Kilkenny, and died without issue, and 3. lady Catharine, married John Toole, esq. and died without issue, May 1803.

In 1762, after the death of earl Richard, Mr. John Annesley, of Ballisack, presented a petition to the then lord lieutenant of Ireland, claiming the titles of viscount Valentia and baron Mountnorris, as next in succession to those honours, in case Richard, the late earl of Anglesey, had died without issue male lawfully begotten.

The said Arthur, the only son of the aforesaid Richard, earl of Anglesey, and viscount Valentia, presented a counter petition by his mother and guardian, Juliana, countess of Anglesey. The matter was referred to the attorney and solicitor general of Ireland, who heard counsel, and received evidence on both sides. After the fullest investigation and examination of evidence, (which lasted near four years) they reported, on the 21st of Sept. 1765, that the marriage of Richard, earl of Anglesey, with Juliana Donovan, in 1741, was proved, and that the honours of Valentia, Mountnorris, and Altham, were legally vested in the said Arthur, the only son of the aforesaid Richard, earl of Anglesey and viscount Valentia.

In 1765, the said Arthur, having attained his age of twenty-one years, was called to parliament in Ireland by a writ of summons, and took his seat in the house of peers as viscount Valentia, baron Mountnorris, and baron Altham: In the same year, 1765, lord Valentia, towards the end of the session of parliament, petitioned his majesty for his writ of summons to the parliament of Great Britain, as earl of Anglesey and baron Annesley, of Newport Pagnel. This petition was referred by his majesty to the then attorney-general of England, sir William de Grey, who reported in the strongest terms in favour of issuing the writ. Sir William was afterwards directed to re-consider his former report, and to give his opinion upon such new evidence as should be laid before him. After considering the whole of the evidence that was laid before him on all sides, sir William De Grey made a second report, recapitulating the evidence, and deciding upon every point in lord Valentia's favour. He reported that Arthur, then lord Valentia, was the legitimate son of the late earl of Anglesey, and as such entitled to the honours of the earl of Anglesey and baron Annesley, of Newport Pagnel. Notwithstanding these several proceedings and reports, his majesty was pleased to refer the matter to the house of lords of Great Britain. The question in this case was, whether lord Valentia was the legitimate son of the late earl of Anglesey? and this question depended upon the truth of the fact alleged by the claimant, namely, the marriage of his father with his mother on the 15th of Sept. 1741, and of the authenticity of the certificate written at the time by the said Laurence Neil, and of the attestation of the witnesses thereto. The testimony of one of the witnesses, Elizabeth Elton, otherwise Smalley, produced against lord Valentia (though severely animadverted upon by some of the lords), raised a suspicion of forgery in what related to the subscription of Charles Kavannagh, one of the witnesses to the certificate. This suspicion, in the issue, depended entirely upon the comparison of the hand-writing, by the test of the eye, to the certificate, with other writings and subscriptions proved by the witnesses, who deposed the subscription to the certificate to be the hand-writing of the said Charles Kavannagh.

With regard to comparison of hands, it was argued by a noble and learned lord, the late earl of Mansfield, lord chief justice, that when there is clear consistent parole testimony of the fact, as there had been in this case, it would be too much to suffer a mere suspicion of forgery to overturn the direct and positive evidence of witnesses, who had deposed in support of the actual marriage and the reality of the certificate. The impressions made by the imputed forgery, and the inference drawn from the comparison of hands, outweighed the direct and positive testimony; and the claim to the Anglesey peerage was therefore disallowed, although earl Mansfield, and several other noble lords, not only spoke, but voted, in favour of the claim.

The house of lords, in England, having decided against lord

lord Valentia's claims to the English honours, in a thin house, and by a very small majority indeed, the same question as before the house of lords in England, namely, a question of filiation, depending entirely upon the truth or falsehood of the marriage on the 15th of Sept. 1741, afterwards came on to be heard before the committee of the house of lords in Ireland, which committee was very fully attended by the peers of Ireland; and after the examination of a number of witnesses, and a patient and dignified hearing, during twenty-one days following (notwithstanding the prior decision of the house of lords of Great Britain), it was finally determined, on the second of June, in the same year, upon a very full attendance of the lords spiritual and temporal, that the late lord viscount Valentia in Ireland, the earl of Anglesey in England, was married, on the 15th of Sept. 1741, to the said Juliana Donovan, the then countess dowager of Anglesey, the mother of the sitting lord. This determination, it is observable, was in the county where the facts alleged by lord Valentia may be supposed to be best known, and were liable to the strictest scrutiny, where they could be easily investigated, and where the characters of the several witnesses were thoroughly known. Lord Annally, the then chief justice of the king's bench in Ireland, spoke and argued very strongly in favour of lord Valentia's claim, and voted for it. The consequence was, that lord Valentia being acknowledged and declared by the house of peers in Ireland to be the legitimate son of his father, Richard, the late earl of Anglesey, and viscount Valentia, has ever since been duly summoned to parliament in that kingdom, and attended his duty there, and has enjoyed all the estates in Great Britain and Ireland, of which is said father, Richard, late earl of Anglesey, died seised. The said Arthur, viscount Valentia, only son of the said Richard, earl of Anglesey and viscount Valentia, was, in the year 1793. created an earl of the kingdom of Ireland, by the title of earl of Mountnorris, of Mountnorris Castle, in the county of Armagh, to him and the heirs male of his body; and his lordship has also been made, by his majesty's order, a privy counsellor of the kingdom of Ireland, is senior governor of the county of Wexford, and premier baronet of that kingdom.

The

The circumstances which appeared in the course of these two great and important causes, as reported in the printed statement of the trials, and the evidences and the different fates that attended them, are extremely singular, leaving upon record two contradictory decisions on the same identical question, occasioned chiefly by the suspicion of forgery of the certificate of 1741, upon the testimony before the lords of Great Britain, of Elizabeth Elton, alias Smalley, &c. a shoemaker's wife, and who had been married to her fourth husband, she having been sworn, first before the lords of Great Britain, upon the certificate of 1741 being produced to her, that she was acquainted with the hand-writing of the witnesses thereto, Nixon Donoyan, and Charles Kavannah, and that she did not believe it to be their hand-writings; afterwards, upon the very same certificate being produced to her before the lords of Ireland, she swore that it was not the same certificate she had seen in England, but a different one; and she added she did not know whose hand-writing the names of the witnesses was, which, as was observed by lord Annally, the chief justice of the king's bench in Ireland (in a speech as a law lord who attended the whole of the trial), was directly contrary to what she had sworn in England: his lordship further added, that the certificate had been fully proved by witnesses acquainted with the hand-writings of the clergymen, and of the subscribing witnesses besides, by direct and positive proof of the actual marriage itself. Since the final decision of the Irish house of lords, lord Valentia has enjoyed his honours in that kingdom, as the legitimate son of the late Richard, earl of Anglesey, but the decision of his claim to the English honours (although both turn on the same hinges) has rested and remained without any revision of the English decision, notwithstanding the peculiar circumstances of the case.

HAYES ST. LEGER, VISCOUNT DONERAILE, Baron of Doneraile. Born March 9, 1755. Succeeded his father, St. Leger, the late viscount, May 15, 1787. Married, Sept. 3, 1785, Charlotte Bernard, sister of Francis earl of Bandon, and has issue, Hayes, born May 9, 1786—Charlotte, born Feb. 20, 1791—Harriet, born March 18, 1796.

There is a tradition in this noble family, that sir Robert St. Leger, knt. who was present, in 1066, at the battle of Hastings, supported the Conqueror with his hand, when he quitted the ship to land in Sussex. Sir Robert was of an ancient house in Normandy, and settled at Ulcomb in Kent, where his descendants were of prime eminence, attended Richard I. to the siege of Acon in the Holy Land (as appears from an inscription on the coffin of Ralph de St. Leger, in the church of Ulcomb), and intermarried with the royal family in the person of sir Thomas St. Leger, knt. who married Anne of York, duchess of Exeter, sister of king Edward IV. and eldest daughter of Richard Plantagenet, duke of York. Sir

Anthony St. Leger, of Ulcomb, served under three successive princes, as lord lieutenant of Ireland, and was created by Henry VIII. a knight of the garter, for his eminent services during his government in Ireland, where his descendants settled. Sir Anthony, knight of the garter, left issue sir Warham St. Leger, lord president of Munster, who married Ursula, daughter of George Nevil, lord Abergavenny, by lady Mary, daughter of Edward Stafford, duke of Buckingham, and was ancestor of Arthur St. Leger, of Doneraile in Ireland, and of Eggesford in Devon, who was created by queen Anne, in 1703, baron of Kilmaydow, and viscount Doneraile. His lordship married, Jan. 24, 1690, Elizabeth, heiress of John Hayes, esq. of Winchelsea in Sussex, M. P. for that port, and niece of sir James Hayes, of Bedgebary in Kent, and had issue Arthur, the second viscount, who married, June 1717, Mary, only daughter of Charles lord Mohun, who was killed in a duel with the duke of Hamilton, and had issue Arthur Mohun, third viscount. His lordship was born August 7, 1718; served in the English parliament for Winchelsea; and was appointed, in 1747, a lord of the bedchamber to Frederic prince of Wales; married, first, April 3, 1738, Mary, heiress of Anthony Shepherd, esq. of Newcastle in Longford; and, secondly, Jan. 3, 1739, Catharine Skeffington, eldest daughter of viscount Massereene, but died without issue at Lisbon, Aug. 1749, when the titles devolved to his uncle Hayes, the fourth viscount, who married in 1722, Elizabeth, eldest daughter and coheiress of Joseph Dean, lord chief baron of the exchequer, and died without issue April 25, 1767, when the titles became extinct. The estates descended to the issue of the viscount's sister, the hon. Elizabeth St. Leger, who married Richard Aldworth, esq. of Newmarket in Cork, grandson of sir Richard Aldworth, provost marshal and vice-president of Munster (descended from the ancient family of Aldworth, of Stanlakes in Berkshire, the representative of which, Richard Aldworth, lord Braybroke, has assumed the name of Griffin), and had issue St. Leger Aldworth, who succeeded to the estates of his uncle, the fourth viscount, and was created baron Doneraile in 1776, and farther advanced, in 1785, to the dignity of viscount Doneraile.

His lordship married Mary, eldest daughter of Redmond Barry, esq. descended from a branch of the earls of Barrymore, and had issue by her (who died March 3, 1778), Hayes, his successor—Richard, born July 12, 1756; married Anne, eldest daughter of Charles Blake-ney, esq. of Hollywell in Roscommon (and had issue Richard; Barry-Boyle; Marianne, married, Feb. 10, 1807, the hon. and rev. Edward Taylor, brother to Thomas, marquis of Headford; and Harriet)—James, born Oct. 4, 1757, in holy orders—Arthur, born Sept. 5, 1761—Barry-Boyle, born Nov. 23, 1768, died Nov. 1799—John, died young—Henrietta, born Feb. 14, 1754; married John Godsal, esq.; and, secondly, June 3, 1795, the hon. Joseph Lysaght, brother to John lord Lisle, by whom she was left a widow, without issue, Aug. 8, 1799—Elizabeth, born March 4, 1760; married William-Annesley Bailie, esq. but has no issue—Mary, born Dec. 16, 1764; married John Watkins, esq. of Old Court—Louisa-Anne, born Oct. 20, 1772; married, July 6, 1805, Knyvett Leighton, esq. of Ford Court, Shropshire, and has a son, born July 2, 1806—Caroline-Catharine-Letitia, born in 1773; married, July 26, 1802, Thomas Alcock, esq. of Burwood-house, in Surrey, and has issue Caroline-Louisa, born Dec. 22, 1803—Charlotte-Theodosia, born March 8, 1774; married, Oct. 21, 1799, William Tonson, lord Riversdale—Georgiana, born April 1, 1775; married, Jan. 15, 1798, Pascoe Grenfell, esq. of Taplow in Buckinghamshire, M. P. for Great Marlow. The viscount died May 15, 1787, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Hayes, the present and sixth viscount.

Heir Apparent—HAYES, only son of the Viscount.

Creations—Baron, in 1776; and Viscount, 1785.

Motto—Haut et bon—Great and good.

His lordship was born Jan. 30, 1739; appointed solicitor-general of Ireland in 1787, attorney-general in 1789, lord chief justice of Ireland in 1798, vice-chancellor of the university of Dublin in 1802; created baron Kilwarden, of Newlands, in the county of Dublin, July 3, 1798; and advanced to the dignity of viscount Kilwarden, of Kilwarden, Dec. 29, 1800. He married, Jan. 3, 1769, Anne lady Kilwarden, baroness of Kiltel, so created Sept. 30, 1795, daughter of William Buxton, esq. of Ardee, in Louth, by Mary, daughter of Samuel Gibbons, esq. and had issue by her (who was born April 24, 1745, and died Aug. 23, 1804;) 1. John, the second viscount—2. Arthur, born June 10, 1773, a colonel in the army, died June 29, 1805—3. Mariana, born Sept. 10, 1777—4. Elizabeth, born Aug. 31, 1778, died May 24, 1806.

The viscount was assassinated while preparing to attend the privy council at the castle of Dublin, July 23, 1803, and was succeeded by his eldest son, John, the second viscount, who also succeeded to the title of lord Kilwarden, baron of Kiltel, Aug. 23, 1804, on the death of his mother, Anne, the late baroness. The following just tribute to the memory of Arthur viscount Kilwarden, is extracted from the charge of Barry lord viscount Avonmore, Oct. 29, 1803, to the grand juries of the county and city of Dublin.

“It was the dying advice of the great and good Kilwarden, ‘that no man should suffer on any account, not even on account of his own murder, without a fair trial.’ Words which ought to be engraven on his tomb-stone in letters of gold, and which deserve to be transmitted to posterity as the motto of the family to which he was so great an honour, and so bright an ornament. When arrested by ruffians, and expiring under the repeated wounds of assassins, he raised the last efforts of exhausted nature to bequeath to his country a legacy which will ever be remembered with gratitude. Who hears the name, but must lament that the star which shone conspicuous in the legal hemisphere, and the dawn of whose early coruscation promised a full blaze of meridian splendour, is, alas! set for ever? And if I may be allowed to mix my private griefs with the public sorrow, suffer me to lament that I have lost the friend of my youth, the companion of my maturer years, my fellow-labourer in the fields of science, and my coadjutor in the administration of justice."

Heir Presumptive—None.

Creations—Baron Kilwarden, of Kilteel, 1795; Baron Kilwarden, of Newlands, 1798; and Viscount, 1800.

JOHN-HENRY UPTON, VISCOUNT TEMPLETOWN, Lord Templetown, Baron of Templetown, in Antrim. Born Nov. 8, 1771. Succeeded his father, Clotworthy, the late lord, April 16, 1785. Married, Aug. 7, 1796, lady Mary Montagu, only daughter of John, fifth and present earl of Sandwich, by Mary-Henrietta, eldest daughter daughter of Harry Paulet, sixth and last duke of Bolton, and has issue, Catharine-Elizabeth, born in 1798, died an infant—Henry-Montagu, born Nov. 11, 1799—Mary-Wilhelmina, born June 1800—George-Frederick, born Aug. 5, 1802—a daughter, born in Jan. 1807.

The family of Upton was seated at Upton, in Cornwall, and a branch settled at Castle Upton, in Ireland, in the reign of Elizabeth. The several heads of the Upton family in Ireland, have served near one hundred and forty years in parliament, without intermission. They were leaders of the dissenting interest; had a very extensive influence in the north of Ireland; and being firmly attached to the illustrious house of Hanover, as the strenuous supporters of the civil and religious liberties of the nation, they constantly exerted themselves in those northern counties with the greatest zeal, activity, and spirit, in that cause.

John Upton (brother of Clotworthy Upton, father of the late viscountess Langford,) born in 1671, a colonel in king William's army, was engaged as lieutenant-colonel of dragoons, at the memorable battle of Almanza, under lord Galway, who, for his spirited conduct on that day, gave him the command of the regiment, upon the death of colonel Killegrew, who was killed at the beginning of the action. He married, March 10, 1711, Mary, only daughter of Francis Upton, by whom he had three sons and five daughters: of the sons, Arthur, of Upton Castle, eldest son and heir, born Jan. 9, 1715, was deputy governor of the county of Antrim, and was a member of his majesty's most honourable privy council in Ireland; he married, first, Sophia, daughter of Michael Ward, of Castle Ward, in Downe, and one of the judges of the court of king's bench in Ireland, by whom he had no issue; he married, secondly, Sarah, daughter of Pole Crosby, of Lix, in Queen's County, esq. and had no issue, and died in Oct. 1763—Francis, the second son, born Jan. 3, 1720, was a commander in the royal navy, and was in several engagements; among others, in that with lord Hawke, off Cape Finisterre; he commanded the Ferret sloop of war at the blockade of Louisburgh, and perished with his ship and crew, in the dreadful storm which dispersed the British fleet off that port. He dying unmarried, ried, the estate devolved on Clotworthy, the third and last son, and first lord, born March 14, 1721, who was created baron of Templetown, in the county of Antrim, Aug. 3, 1776. His lordship was, in 1761, appointed clerk-comptroller of the household to her late royal highness the princess dowager of Wales; married Elizabeth, sister of sir Edward Boughton, bart. of Lawford Hall, the eighth baronet of the family, and third daughter of Shuckburgh Boughton, of Poston Court, in Leicestershire, esq. (eldest son of sir William, the fourth baronet, by his second wife, Catharine, daughter of sir Charles Shuckburgh, bart. by Mary, daughter of the hon. Algernon Greville, by Mary, daughter and coheir of lord Arthur Somerset,) by whom he had issue, John-Henry, second and present viscount—Fulke-Greville, born April 3, 1773, a lieutenant-colonel in the army, married July 9, 1807, the only daughter of Richard Howard, esq. of Castle Rising, Norfolk—Arthur-Percy, born June 13, 1777—Augusta, died young—Elizabeth-Albana, born Aug. 16, 1775; married, Feb. 20, 1798, Frederick-William Hervey, fifth earl of Bristol—Caroline, born Oct. 19, 1778; married, Aug. 21, 1804, James Singleton, esq.—Sophia, born in Sept. 1780. His lordship deceasing April 16, 1785, was succeeded by his eldest son, John-Henry, who was, March 1806, advanced to the dignity of viscount Templetown.

Heir Apparent—HENRY-MONTAGU, the Viscount's eldest son.

Creations—Aug. 3, 1776; and Viscount, March 1806.

Motto—Virtutes avorum præmium—The reward of the virtue of my ancestors.

Arms—See Plate 71.

CORNELIUS O'CALLAGHAN, VISCOUNT LISMORE, of Shanbally, Baron Lismore. Born Oct. 2, 1772. Succeeded his father, Cornelius, the late lord, July 12, 1797.

This family is descended from Ceallachan, or Callaghan, a prince of Munster, renowned for his exploits against the Danes. His descendants founded a monastery of Austin Friars at Clonmene, and the castle of Drumaneeen, which was their chief seat. Smyth, in his History tory of Cork (page 308, vol. i.), says, "The castle of Drumaneen stands boldly on the Black Water; it was the chief seat of the O'Callaghans. About the time of James I. they erected a very stately house on the foundation of the castle, which was ruined in the late wars: the castle bawn is large and well inclosed with a high stone wall flanked with round towers; and the whole, though in ruins, from the opposite side of the river, by its lofty situation, has still an august appearance."

Cornelius O'Callaghan was lord and chieftain of Poble Callaghan, and seised of several large territories in 1594, as appears by an inquisition taken by sir Thomas Norris, vice-president of Munster, Oct. 25, 1594 (see Smyth, p. 42.) from him descended Cornelius O'Callaghan, representative for Fethard in the second parliament of queen Anne, and conspicuous for his great abilities at the bar; he married Maria, daughter of Robert Jolly, esq. and was interred with her (who died June 6, 1757) in the family vault at Shanbally, where a monument is erected to his memory; he left issue, 1. Robert, member for Fethard in 1757, married, April, 24, 1735, Alicia, coheirress of Edward Worth, esq. of Rathfarnham, by Jane, heiress of Richard Saunders, esq. of Saunders Court, and died without issue in 1761—2. Cornelius, a master of the court of chancery, and representative for Fethard in 1761, died without issue in 1769—3. Thomas, married, April 7, 1740, Sarah, daughter of John Davis, esq. and by her (who died Aug. 13, 1745) had issue, Cornelius, the first lord; and a daughter, married Robert Longfield, esq. of Castle Martyr. Cornelius, the first lord Lismore, born in 1742, married, Dec. 13, 1774, Frances Ponsonby, second daughter of the right hon. John Ponsonby, speaker of the house of commons in Ireland, brother of William earl of Besborough, by lady Elizabeth Cavendish, second daughter of William, third duke of Devonshire, and had issue, 1. Cornelius lord Lismore—2. Robert-William, born Oct. 1777, a lieutenant-colonel in the army, and lieutenant-colonel of the 39th regiment of infantry—3. George, born Sept. 1787—4. Louisa, born Aug. 5, 1779, married July 18, 1807, William Cavendish, esq. M. P. for Derby eldest son of Lord George-Augustus-Henry Cavendish only brother to William duke of Devonshire, K. G—5. Elizabeth beth, born Dec. 1783; married John Hyde, esq. of Castle Hyde, in Ireland, descended from a branch of the earls of Clarendon—6. Mary, born Dec. 31, 1797. His lordship died July 12, 1797, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Cornelius, the present lord, who was advanced to the dignity of a viscount, in 1806.

Heir Presumptive—WILLIAM, his Lordship's brother.

Creation—June 25, 1785—Viscount May 30, 1806.

Motto—Fides et audax—Faithful and courageous.

Arms—See Plate 72.

ROBERT-EDWARD KING, VISCOUNT LORTON, Baron Erris, of Boyle, in the county of Roscommon, governor, and custos rotulorum, a colonel in the army, and a colonel of the militia of the county of Roscommon. Born Aug. 12, 1773. Married in Dec. 1779, Frances, sole surviving daughter of Laurence Parsons, viscount Oxmantown, by lady Jane King, daughter of Edward, earl of Kingston, and has issue—Jane, born in November, 1800—Eleanor, born July, 1802—And Robert, born July, 1804.

His lordship is the second son of Robert, earl of Kingston, and brother to George, the present earl, by Caroline, grand-daughter and sole heiress of James, lord Kingston. His lordship entered the army in 1791, and served in the battalion of grenadiers, at the taking of the French West India islands in 1794, under the command of lieutenant-general sir Charles Grey, knight of the bath, (late earl Grey.) He in 1799, succeeded to the family estates, in the counties of Roscommon and Sligo, which were left to him by his father. His lordship was advanced to the dignity of a viscount, May 30, 1806.

*NICHOLAS BARNWELL, BARON TRIMLESTOWN. Succeeded his cousin, Thomas, the late lord, Dec. 29, 1796. His lordship married, first, in 1798, Martha-Henrietta D'Aguin, daughter of a president of the parliament of Toulouse, in France, by whom (who died May 1782) he has issue living, a son, John-Thomas, born Jan. 30, 1773; married, 1794, Maria-Theresa, daughter of Richard Kirwan, esq. of Craig, in Galway, by whom he has issue, Thomas, born 1796—Rosalia, born Sept. 1771; married, Oct. 1796, Peter count Dalton (eldest son of lieutenant-general count Dalton, who was killed at Dunkirk in 1793) and has issue, two sons and one daughter, Edward, Nicholas, and Henrietta. His lordship married, secondly, Aug. 8, 1797, Alicia, daughter of major-general Eustace.

This nobleman is descended from an elder branch of the Kingsland family, who was created a baron in 1461. His lordship's grandfather, John, the fifteenth baron Trimlestown, married Mary Barnwall, daughter of sir John Barnwall, of Crickstown, by whom he had several children, and died April 7, 1746. Robert, the eldest son, succeeded his father, and married, first, Margaret, daughter of James Rochfort, of Sorrhagh, in Kildare, esq. and had issue ten children, all of whom died before their father, except Thomas, the late lord, who died Dec. 1796, unmarried, when he was succeeded by Nicholas, the present lord. Robert married, secondly, a daughter of lady Kemp, of Tooting, in Surrey, by whom he had one son, Joseph, who died some months after his father. Robert married, thirdly, June 13, 1778, Anne Hervey, daughter of William Hervey, esq. of Northamptonshire, and died Dec. 6, 1779, when Thomas, the late lord, succeeded. The other children of John, the fifteenth lord Trimlestown, by lineal descent from father to son, were Thomasina, married in 1729, Jenico viscount Gormans-town—Margaret, married in 1736, James viscount Mountgarret—and Bridget, married — Martin, esq. of Dungan, in Galway, and died in 1764—Catharine, deceased—John, married in France, lady Waters, and died without issue—Thomas, died in the French service at the battle of Lansfield—James, died in Spain—Anthony, was killed in the Imperial service in 1739. Richard, the third son, married Frances, daughter of Nicholas Barnwell, viscount Kingsland (by Mary, daughter of Frances countess of Tyrconnel, sister to the duchess dowager of Marlborough, by her first husband count Hamilton), by whom (who died March 19, 1735) he had Nicholas, the present peer—John and Henry, both deceased. Robert, the eldest son of John, the fifteenth lord, married Margaret, daughter of James Rochfort, esq. as above, and had Thomas, the late lord, who claimed the title, which had lain dormant from the time of Cromwell, and which was allowed March 3, 1795; but dying unmarried, Dec. 29, 1796, Nicholas, his cousin, the present peer succeeded.

Heir Apparent—JOHN-THOMAS, his Lordship's eldest son.

Creation—1461.

RANDAL PLUNKET, LORD DUNSANY, of Dunsany Castle, in Meath. Born Dec. 16, 1750. Succeeded his father, Edward, the late lord, June 9, 1781. Married Margaret, daughter of Edward Archdeacon, esq. and widow of Edward Mandeville, of Ballydine, in the county of Tipperary, esq. and by her (who died on Sept. 13, 1791) has issue, Edward-Wadding, born April 7, 1773, a captain in the 2d foot guards; married, in 1803, Charlotte-Louisa, youngest daughter of lord Cloncurry; and has issue a son, born at Rome, Sept. 5, 1804—Randal, born Oct. 1, 1778—Margaret—Rose—Anne, married, Aug. 1803, Philip Roche, of Limerick, esq. His lordship married, secondly, Aug. 7, 1800, Mary, sister of sir Drummond Smith, bart. of Tring Park, in Hertfordshire, and of Joshua Smith, esq. of Stoke Park, in Wiltshire, father of Mary countess of Northampton.

His lordship was restored to his peerage and precedence in the year 1786 by a writ of error; his ancestor having been included in the conditions of Limerick. The reason he was proscribed is, that his said ancestor did not appear at the first parliament of king William III. in Ireland, to take the benefit of the said conditions.

His lordship's grandfather, Randal, the eleventh lord Dunsany, who was attainted, but was restored on April 16, 1791; married, first, Anne, daughter of sir William Pershall, relict of Theobald, the first earl of Carlingford; and by her having no issue, he married, secondly, in May 1711, Bridget, only daughter of sir John Fleming, of Stahalmock, in the county of Meath, knight, son of lord Slain; and dying March 16, 1785, left issue, two sons and four daughters, viz. Edward—Randell, born 1721—Anne, born 1714—Mary, born in 1716; both of whom died young—Alice, born in 1718—Jane, born 1719. Edward, the eldest son, who succeeded, was born 1713; on coming of age, in 1735, conformed to the protestant religion before his father's death, and neglected to claim his seat in parliament, to which he was never summoned. In 1734, he married Mary, eldest daughter of Francis Alien, of Saint Wolstan's, in Kildare, esq. and dying in 1781, left issue, a son, Randal, now lord Dunsany; and two daughters, Bridget, married to Hugh M'Guire, of Kellston, esq.—and Rose, to the marquis De Carondelet, baron of Melle, near Cambrai.

MORRIS ROBINSON, BARON ROKEBY, of Ar-magh, in Ireland, and an English Baronet. Succeeded his uncle, Mathew, the late lord, Nov. 30, 1800.

William Robertson, seventh baron of Strowan, was the son of Robert, of Strowan (who died before his father), and Isabel daughter of John Stewart, earl of Athol (Baronage of Scotland, by sir Robert Douglas), whose mother, Jean queen dowager of Scotland, was great-grand-daughter of Edward the third.—Robert, of Strowan, was the son of Alexander (who was one of the twenty-four barons appointed by the parliament of Scotland (edition of the Scots Acts of parliament, published by order of queen Mary, and commonly called the Black Acts, from the nature of their character), to govern the kingdom during the minority of James the fourth); and of Elizabeth, daughter of Patrick lord Glamis, who was grandson of the princess Jane, lady Glamis, daughter of Robert, the second king of Scotland, of that name. The said Alexander, fifth baron of Strowan, was the son of Robert, of Strowan; who after the murder of king James the first, of Scotland, frustrated the the attempt of the conspirators to deprive his son, James the second, of the crown (Baronage of Scotland, and Charter in the register-office, Edinburgh), which great service has been commemorated ever since, by an addition to the arms of the Strowan family to be borne by its chieftain. This Robert was the great-grandson and heir of Duncan earl of Athol (Charter by king David the second to Robert, son of Duncan earl of Athol, mentioned in the printed records of the register-office of Edinburgh, and still in the possession of the Strowan family. Mr. Wallace, in his Treatise on the ancient Peerage of Scotland, gives several instances of the title of earl having been disused by families who had borne it), son of Angus lord of the Isles, which Duncan was one of the few barons of Scotland, who remained in arms to the last, against Edward the first, of England; when having been chosen by them arbiter in the contest concerning the succession to the throne, that monarch availed himself of the confidence reposed in him to extend his own power.

William, seventh baron of Strowan, by a lady of the family of Creighton, had Robert, his eldest, and William, his younger son, ancestor to the Robinsons of Rokeby.

This William, seventh baron of Strowan, was engaged in the consequences of a feud so inveterate with the earl of Athol of that period, that the issue could not be otherwise than merciless to the vanquished party; all regard to the government (such then was the state of rule in Scotland, and so feeble the administration of justice in that country) was laid aside, and they contended openly for the supremacy in Athol; their conflict was bloody and barbarous in the extreme; the baron of Strowan maintained constantly in arms eight hundred men; the advantage in the contest appeared at first to be on his side, and he made the same use of it as his adversary probably would have done, had his power been prevalent; the castle of the earl of Athol was surprised by him, and burnt to the ground. The contest in consequence became irreconcilable; the partisans of the earl waited with vigilance, till an opportunity should be afforded them of avenging the deed. This they were enabled to effect at a subsequent period, by intercepting the baron of Strowan on his return home, at a moment when he was least prepared ed for an encounter; he was surprised, in his turn, as his adversary had been on a previous occasion, and the result of an unequal conflict with a foe so ferocious was the murder of William at Strowan. The baron's estate extending to more than a moiety of the county of Athol, was immediately seized on by his antagonist (the earl of Athol), who was prompted equally by avarice and apprehension to such a stretch of power. Robert, the eldest son of William, remained in Scotland; and in process of time, Strowan, with one fourth of the estate, was retrieved for the family, and is now possessed by colonel Alexander Robertson of Strowan, and with it the claim to the dormant barony of Strowan, that family having long sat among the greater barons in the parliament of Scotland.

William, the younger son, deprived by the oppression of the earl of Athol of that portion of property generally assigned to the younger branches of the Strowan family, sought refuge in England, temp. Henry the Eighth, and married an heiress of the family of Rokeby. He possessed lands in Westmoreland, and was father of Ralphe Robynson, his eldest, and Henry, his younger son, who left descendants; he had also a daughter, Ursula, who was married to Thomas More. Ralphe Robynson, esq. of Brugnall, his eldest son, married Agnes, eldest daughter and coheir of James Phelippe, esq. of Brugnall, who obtained an addition to his family arms, by his martial achievements, by ——— Bainbrigge, daughter of ——— Bainbrigge, esq. a family at that time, of distinction. William Robynson, esq. only surviving son of Ralphe, who had issue, was of Rokeby and Brignall, both in the county of York; to the estate of Brignall he succeeded, and (before the close of queen Elizabeth's reign) made good the claim previously advanced by his family to the estate of Rokeby, which had been possessed by the Rokebys at and before the conquest, where he became the first resident of his name. He married Mary, the daughter of Thomas Hill, esq. of Thornton, in the county of York; he lived to an advanced age, and died in 1643, was one of the persons aggrieved by the exactions of loans by Thomas lord Wentworth, while president of the North, and paid a fine for refusing to appear at the king's coronation, and beknighthed at a time when one of his name and family did appear, and acquiesced in the mandate, by being admitted among the knights of that creation: by Mary, his wife, William had Thomas, his eldest, and John, his younger son, vicar of Burniston, in Yorkshire, who married a daughter of Dr. Wilson, and had a son William, who died without issue—Katharine, daughter of William Robynson, was married at Rokeby in 1613, to Percival Phelips, esq. of Wensley, in the county of York, by whom she had four daughters coheirs; and after his decease, was married at Rokeby in 1627, to Richard Smith, esq. of Cottingham, in Yorkshire, by whom she had issue.

Thomas Robynson, esq. eldest son of William, born about 1590, was educated at the university, and was afterwards admitted a barrister at Gray's Inn, according to the custom of the education of those times, though he never practised in the profession of the law. He subsequently went into the Low Countries to acquire a due knowledge of the art of war, and with that intent remained there some time to familiarise himself with its proceedings. On the breaking out of the civil wars in England, he raised a considerable number of horse at his own expence, and bore the rank of colonel, as a military officer, but was slain in the commencement of the shock of arms in his native country, V. P. and buried, June, 19, 1643, at Leeds, where a monument was erected to his memory (since that period consumed by fire). This Thomas Robynson was named, by the parliament, one of the sequestrators of the estates in the North Riding of Yorkshire, with lord Fairfax, sir Thomas Fairfax, and the principal gentry of that district, as denominated in the parliamentary History.

Lord Clarendon states in his history "that of those appointed to this office, many had too much regard to their characters to act in it; others went over to the king's side, and some fell immediately in the conflict of the civil wars." All these observations, in a great measure, applied to this gentleman, as he subsequently went over to the royal party, adopting a motto expressive of his sentiments on that occasion, respecting the too great vehemence of the parliament, and became an early sacrifice to his exertions in the cause of his king and country. In the year 1621, Thomas Robinson was married at Rokeby, to Frances, daughter of Leonard Smelt, esq. of Kirby Fletham, in the county of York, by — Allanson; by this lady he had William, his eldest son—Thomas, who died at an early age, unmarried—Matthew, who succeeded his uncle, John Robinson, in the living of Burniston, in the year 1651; he married Jane, daughter of Mark Pickering, esq. sister and heir of William Pickering, esq. of Eworth, in the county of York, but by her left no issue; and Leonard Robinson, posthumous son, born a few days after his father was slain in the civil wars; of the sons, only the eldest and youngest left issue; by Frances, his wife, Thomas Robinson had two daughters, Mary, married at Rokeby in 1640, to Christopher Blencowe, son and heir of sir Henry Blencowe, knight of Blencowe, in the county of Cumberland, and himself afterwards knighted by Charles II. descended from Adam de Blencowe, of Blencowe, standard-bearer to Edward III. at the battles of Cressy and Poitiers; and Frances, married to George Grey, esq. of Sudwick, or Southwick, in the bishopric of Durham; descended from the Greys of Chillingham and Werk, in the north of England. William Robinson, esq. of Rokeby, eldest son and heir of Thomas, born at Rokeby, 1624; married at Rokeby, 1644, Mary, eldest daughter and coheir of Francis Layton, esq. of Rawdon, in the county of York, a commander in the army of Charles I. and master of the jewel-office to that king and his successor, by the daughter of sir Hugh Brawne, knt. This Francis Layton was the second son to Francis Layton, esq. of West Layton Hall, and Kirby Hill, in the county of York, and younger brother to John Layton, esq. of West Layton Hall, who married the daughter of sir Alan Cotton, knt. by whom he had issue. West Layton Hall became the property of sir Leonard Robinson, younger son of Thomas, and younger brother of William; in which family it still continues. Three brothers of the family of Layton fell in the battle of Zutphen, with sir Philip Sidney—Richard Layton, a younger son of the Laytons of West Layton, was dean of York in Henry the Eighth's time, and was one of the persons whose authority that monarch principally made use of in dissolving the monasteries—Thomas Layton, esq. was one of those constituted conservators of York by Henry V. as appears by Rymer's Fœdera; by Mary, his wife, William had a son, Thomas, and a daughter, married to William Pickering, esq. of Thornborough, in the county of York—Thomas Robinson, esq. of Rokeby, son and heir of William, married Grace, eldest daughter of sir Henry Stapylton, bart. of Myton, in the county of York, by Elizabeth, daughter of Conyers Darcy, lord Conyers and Darcy, &c. afterwards created earl of Holderness. He died in Feb. 1619, leaving by Grace, his wife, one son, Thomas Robinson, and a daughter, Elizabeth, who died unmarried.

William Robinson, esq. of Rokeby, son and heir of Thomas, married Anne, daughter and heir of Robert Waters, esq. of Cundale, by ———, the daughter and heir of Christopher Stordale, esq. of Belton Park, both in the county of York. He died Dec. 1719; by that lady he had seven sons and two daughters; Thomas, the eldest son, in 1727 represented the borough of Morpeth in parliament, and was created a baronet, March, 10, 1730, with remainder, after his brothers, to Matthew Robinson, esq. of West Layton, in the county of York. He married, first, Elizabeth, daughter of Charles, third earl of Carlisle, and widow of Nicholas lord Lechmere; secondly, Sarah Booth, of the family of lord Delamere, and widow of ——— Salmon, esq. by neither of whom he had issue—Robert, the second son, who died at fourteen—3. Sir William, who succeeded to the baronetage on the death of his brother, Thomas, and died unmarried—4. Henry, an officer of considerable expectation, who died of the wounds he received at the attack of St. Lazare, near Carthage, being then a major in the army—5. Richard, clerk, first peer, was vicar of Aldborough, and prebendary of York cathedral; succeeded, 1751, Dr. Celary, as bishop of Killala, in Ireland, was afterwards promoted to the bishopric of ———, and subsequently to that of Kildare; and on the death of Dr. Stone in 1764, was promoted to the archbishopric of Armagh, and primacy of Ireland, which he held for thirty years; in the course of which time he was left in the government of Ireland, during the absence of the lord-lieutenant. In 1777 he was created baron Rokeby, of Armagh, in Ireland, with remainder to
Matthew

Matthew Robinson, esq. of West Layton, in the county of York; he afterwards succeeded his brother, sir William, as an English baronet, and died unmarried in 1794—6. Another son, who died young—7. Septimus, served in several campaigns abroad, was a colonel in the army, knighted, and appointed gentleman usher of the black rod, to the late and present sovereign. He died at Brough, in Westmoreland, 1764—Elizabeth, eldest daughter, who was the second wife of Robert Knight, esq. of Barrells, in Warwickshire, father of the earl of Catherlough, by whom she had one son, who died unmarried. She afterwards married Robert Cresset, esq. comptroller of the household of the late queen, by whom she had no issue—Grace, the youngest daughter, married William Friend, dean of Canterbury, and rector of Whitney, &c. by whom she had Robert, who died without issue—William Friend, clerk, who married, and left a daughter, Debra-Susanna, his heir, married to lord viscount Ashbrook—John Friend, archdeacon of Armagh, changed his name to Robinson; married and had issue, and a daughter, wife of colonel Campbel; by whom she had a son; the gallant colonel Campbel who was recently slain, having distinguished himself materially in the East Indies.

Leonard Robinson, youngest son of Thomas, and younger brother of William, was born at Rokeby, June 23, 1643, a short period after his father was slain in the civil wars, June 19, 1643. He was early engaged in the cause of the Revolution; was a member of the convention, and knighted by king William III. By his first marriage he had Thomas, only surviving son, who had issue by his second wife, Deborah, daughter and sister of sir James Collet, knight. He had six daughters; Deborah, married to John Baker, esq. whose daughter married William, afterwards third viscount Chetwynd, grandfather of Richard, fifth viscount Chetwynd; — Snell, esq. ——— to Elmes Spinkes, esq. of Northamptonshire; ——— to Robert Knight, esq. son of ——— Knight, esq. of Barrells, in Warwickshire; ——— to ——— Gibbon, esq. and ——— to ——— Bourne, esq.

Thomas Robinson, esq. of West Layton, in Yorkshire, son of sir Leonard, married Elizabeth, daughter of Wil-

William Clarke, esq. and sister and heir of William Clarke, esq. of Merrivale Abbey, in Warwickshire, descended from the Clarkes of Willoughby, in the same county, and widow of Anthony Light, esq.; by whom she had one daughter, Lydia, married, first, to Thomas Kirke, esq. of Cookridge, in the county of York, whose grandmother, wife of Gilbert Kirke, esq. of Cookridge, was one of the coheirs of Francis Layton, esq. of Rawdon, above-mentioned; and, secondly, to Robert Lumley, esq. of the same county, descended from the Lumleys, of Lumley Castle, in the bishopric of Durham. Thomas Robinson, esq. of West Layton, died in 1700-1701, aged 33; by Elizabeth, his wife, he had three sons, Matthew, his eldest—Thomas, who died unmarried—Leonard, who married and left issue—Thomas, in the royal navy, who died without issue—Matthew Robinson, of West Layton, eldest son of Thomas, married at 18 years of age, while a fellow-commoner of Trinity College, Cambridge, Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Drake, esq. descended from the Drakes of Ashe, in Devonshire (by Sarah, eldest daughter and coheir of Thomas Morris, esq. of Mountmorris, in Kent), sister and heir of Morris-Drake Morris, esq. of Coveney, Cambridgeshire, and Mountmorris, Kent—Matthew Robinson died in his 85th year, 1778; by Elizabeth, his wife, who died in 1745, he had seven sons and two daughters. Matthew Robinson, esq. of West Layton and Mountmorris, eldest son of Matthew, represented the city of Canterbury in two parliaments, and succeeded to the title of Irish peer and English baronet, on the death of Richard above-mentioned, in 1794; second Thomas Robinson, a barrister of eminence, though his career was abridged by a premature death at the age of 33, and author of the Treatise on Gavelkind. He died unmarried in 1746—Morris Robinson, third son, married Jane, eldest daughter of John Greenland, gent. of Lovelace, in Kent, eldest son of Augustine Greenland, esq. of Bellevue, in Kent, (by Jane, his wife, daughter and heir of—Gifford, of Inave), and sister of Augustine Greenland, esq. late deputy teller of the exchequer. This John Greenland above-mentioned, married Jane Batchelor, of Kent, whose mother was —Weller, of Rolvenden, in Kent, a family connected with large landed property; which, by a female heir, with the mansion-house of Charlton Hall, in Kent, was transmitted by marriage to sir Thomas-Spencer Wilson, bart. and is now possessed by his son, sir Thomas W. Wilson, bart. This family of Wellers long served as military, and particularly as naval officers; and there are at this period, or were recently, in the navy, descended by the females from the Wellers, of Rolvenden, four admirals and post-captains, viz.—the two distinguished admiral Pakenhams, and captains Ball and Henry. By Jane, his wife, Morris had Morris, his eldest son, the present peer; and Matthew, who changed his name to Montagu, now of Denton Hall, in Northumberland, and Alerthorpe, in Yorkshire. He represented Tregony in the parliament, from 1790 to 1796, and Bossiney in the latter part of the preceding parliament. He married Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Francis Charlton, esq. and by her had issue, 1. Edward—2. Francis—3. William, &c.

Morris, the eldest, the present peer, represented Boroughbridge, in Yorkshire, in the parliament, from 1790 to 1796, and succeeded his uncle, Matthew, as an Irish peer and an English baronet, Nov. 30, 1800. He is the ninth in descent from William, who first came into England temp. Henry VIII. and the tenth in decent from William, seventh baron of Strowan, in Scotland—4. Robert, who died unmarried—5. William, clerk, late rector of Burfield, Berkshire, and Denton, Kent; he married Mary, sister and heir of William Richardson, esq. by whom he had issue two daughters, Sarah, and Mary, married to Egerton Brydges, esq. of Denton Court, Kent; and one son, Matthew-Clerk, late rector of Coveney and Maney, Cambridgeshire, and Burfield, Berkshire; and unmarried—6. John, unmarried—7. Charles, who represented the city of Canterbury in two parliaments, and married Mary Greenland, widow of Richard Dawkes, esq. younger sister of Jane, above-mentioned, by whom he has one daughter, Sarah, married to William Hougham, esq. of Denton Court, Kent—Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Matthew and Elizabeth Robinson, married Edward Montagu, esq. of Allerthorpe in the county of York, grandson of Edward, first earl of Sandwich, and died Aug. 28, 1800, without issue—Sarah, youngest daughter, married George-Louis
Scot,

Scot, esq.—Of the family of Rokeby—sir Thomas Rokeby, of Rokeby, in Yorkshire, lord deputy of Ireland in Edward III.'s time, abolished the grievous oppression on the Irish, called cogue and livery. He said he would eat on wooden trenchers, but pay for every thing he procured from the Irish with gold ; a singular instance of continence in that age. Sir Thomas Rokeby, of Rokeby, his descendant, when sheriff of Yorkshire, in the reign of Henry IV. defeated with the posse comitatus, the force of the earl of Northumberland, the father of Hotspur, invading England from Scotland, in which conflict the earl of Northumberland was slain, and lord Bardolph taken. This timely check is said, by Rapin, to have preserved Henry IV. on the throne—Sir Ralph Rokeby was slain in the battle of Chevy Chase.—See the ballad of Chevy Chase, in Purcy's collection (the ancient, not the modern ballad.)

One of the Robinsons, who was sent on an expedition with others of his countrymen, in the reign of queen Elizabeth, to Havre de Grace, died there, in effort for the service of his country, is thus recorded by Thuanus, the historian of France, Robinsonus et alii nobiles. Vide Thuanus Historia.

RICHARD MALONE, BARON SUNDERLIN, of Lake Sunderlin, Lord Sunderlin, of Baronston, married, in 1778, Philippa, eldest daughter of Godolphin Rooper, esq. of Great Berkhamstead, in Hertfordshire, by whom his lordship has no issue.

This ancient family derive their descent from the O'Connors, kings of Connaught, which name they originally bore. The O'Connors were of the Clan-Murry race, being descended from Inrachta, the eldest son of Murry Mullathan, that is, Murry the long-headed; a celebrated prince, who died king of Connaught, in the year 701. The descendants of this king, for four centuries, bore the name of Clan Murry, or Síol Murry (Clan and Síol being synonymous,) with such local or personal additions as were then used for the sake of distinction; local from the district in which each person lived; personal, from some characteristic, quality or mark; as red, black, lame, bold, valiant, hospitable, and the like.

When surnames took place in the eleventh century, they were established in Connaught under Teig, king of that province (so called from the white steed on which he rode,) who assumed the surname of O'Connor, in honour of Connor his grandfather; other families of the Clan-Murry race followed his example; some taking their surname from a father, others from a grandfather, by prefixing the syllable Mac, that is son, or O, which signifies grandson. One of the descendants of the house of O'Connor, whose christain name was John, having become bald-headed, was popularly called Maol-Eoin (pronounced O in,) that is Bald John, conformably to a custom which very generally prevailed in Ireland in former times. The transition from Maol-Eoin to Malone, was soon made, and the latter name became in a short time the nomen gentilitium of the family.

Richard Malone of Baronston, esq. died Jan. 6, 1744, leaving issue, Anthony, Edmund, Richard, John. Anthony, born Dec. 5, 1700, was educated at Oxford; in 1720, he was appointed prime-serjeant at law; and, in 1757, chancellor of the exchequer in Ireland, and sworn of his majesty's most honourable privy council; he married, in 1733, Rose, daughter of sir Ralph Gore, bart. and sister to the earl of Ross, and died May 8, 1770, WILLIAM HOTHAM, LORD HOTHAM, of South Dalton, Admiral of the Red. Born April 8, 1736.

The ancestor of this family, sir John De Trehouse, lord of Kilkenny, in Ireland, for his services at the battle of Hastings, had a grant from the Conqueror of the castle and manors of Colley Weston, in Northamptonshire, and Hotham, in Yorkshire, from which his posterity assumed the name of Hotham: many of this family had summons to parliament as barons, and one of them was chancellor to Edward II.

Sir John Hotham, the twentieth in lineal descent from sir John De Trehouse, was created a baronet, Jan. 4, 1621. He was appointed governor of Hull in 1643, but having been discovered to hold a correspondence with the royal party, he was tried and convicted by a court martial for that and other offences against the parliament, and was beheaded on Tower Hill, together with his eldest son, sir John Hotham, knight. "He was master," says lord Clarendon, "of a noble fortune in land, and rich in money, of a very ancient family, and well allied." From his second son, the rev. Charles Hotham, descended sir Beaumont, the seventh baronet, who married Frances, daughter of the rev. William Thompson, and sister of William Thompson, esq. of Humbleton, in Yorkshire, and had issue by her (who died in 1772) 1. sir Charles—2. sir John, in holy orders, successive baronets—3. SYLVESTER DOUGLAS, BARON GLENBERVIE, of Kincardine; so created Dec. 27, 1800; late chief secretary in Ireland, and representative in parliament for St. Canice, or Irish Town, in that country, and in the British parliament, first of Fowey, afterwards of Midhurst, then of Plympton, and in 1806 of Hastings; one of his majesty's most hon. privy council in both kingdoms; president (in the absence of the earl of Liverpool) of the committee of privy council for the affairs of trade and plantations; one of the commissioners for the affairs of India; one of his majesty's council learned in the law; and formerly one of the lords commissioners of the treasury. He was appointed governor of the Cape of Good Hope, in the year 1800; but soon afterwards relinquished that situation; and on Feb. 20, 1801, kissed his majesty's hand hand on being nominated joint pay-master-general of the forces, in the room of Mr. Canning : in 1803 he was appointed to the office of surveyor-general of the king's woods, forests, and chaces, which office he resigned in 1806, and was again appointed to the same office in 1807. He married, Sept. 26, 1789, Catharine-Ann, eldest daughter of Frederick, second earl of Guilford, knight of the garter, and has issue Frederick-Sylvester-North, born Feb. 8, 1791.

Lord Glenbervie was the eldest, and is the only surviving son of John Douglas, esq. of Fechil, in the parish of Ellon, and county of Aberdeen.

The said John Douglas was tenth in lineal male descent from William Douglas, the first earl of Douglas, which William was paternal nephew and successor, as heir male, to James, the eighth lord Douglas (called, by the Scottish historians, the good sir James), who flourished in the time of Robert Bruce, king of Scotland, and Edward I. king of England. The said William was seventh in male descent from William de Douglas, the first lord Douglas, who was descended from Sholto Douglas, said to have flourished in the year 700.

John Douglas was the great-great-grandson, and became (in consequence of the death of his elder brother, George, and of Robert and James, the only sons of George, who both died unmarried) lineal heir male of the body of the rev. James Douglas, of Glenbervie ; which James was brother to William, the ninth earl of Angus, the said ninth earl being the sixth in lineal male descent from the above-named William, the first earl of Douglas, and great-grandson to Archibald, the fifth earl of Angus (styled the great earl), whose second son was Gawin Douglas, bishop of Dunkeld, author of the celebrated translation of Virgil.

The said Archibald was the common ancestor of the lady Margaret Douglas (maternal sister of James V. of Scotland, niece of Henry VIII. grand-daughter of Henry VII. and grandmother of James I. of England, and VI. of Scotland, being the mother of lord Darnley ; and of the present Archibald lord Douglas ; of the duke of Hamilton ; of the earl of Selkirk ; of sir William Hamilton, K. B. ; of sir Alexander Douglas, bart. (styled of Glenbervie) ; vie); and of lord Glenbervie. The above-mentioned John Douglas, his lordship's father, married Catharine, the second of the three daughters and co-heirs of James Gordon, of Fechil, great-grandson to the celebrated geographer Robert Gordon, of Straloch, author of the Geography of Scotland, inserted in Bleau's Atlas. The said Catharine Gordon was born in 1716, and died in 1737; she was second cousin to the last earl Marischal, George Keith, they being grandchildren of George Hay, second earl of Kinnoul, by his two daughters, the ladies Mary and Katharine. Her husband, the said John Douglas, survived her, and married a second wife, Margaret Forbes, but had no issue by her. He was born in 1714, and died in 1762.

He left no issue but lord Glenbervie, born May 24, 1743, and Catharine, who married James Mercer, esq. of Sunny Bank, Aberdeenshire, and died Jan. 3, 1802.

Heir Apparent—The before-mentioned FREDERIC-SYLVESTER-NORTH DOUGLAS, only son of his Lordship.

Creation—1800.

Motto—Per varios casus—By various fortunes.

William—8. Frederick, twins, born Jan. 6, 1798—9. Edmund, born July 20, 1799—10. Arthur, born Dec. 19, 1801.

This family is originally French, and in ancient times ranked high in the nobility of that nation.

In the list of nobles that accompanied Philip the Sixth, king of France, into Flanders in 1328, is Frederick De Thellusson, Seigneur De Fléschères; he is also described as baron St. Saphorin, from an estate he possessed adjoining to Fléschères, in the neighbourhood of Lyons. This Frederick held a high command in the army, and distinguished himself at the siege of Cassel. His descendants continued in the possession of these estates till Sunday Aug. 22, 1572, when they fell victims at the massacre of St Bartholomew. The only survivor of that dreadful slaughter was Theophilus De Thellusson, who having married a sister of the count De Saluce, then governor of Lyons, was concealed by him and secretly conveyed into Savoy, from whence seeing no probability of having his estates restored, or an end to the persecution of the protestants, he retired to Geneva, where this family has since filled the first offices in the magistracy of that republic.

In 1720, Isaac De Thellusson, the grandfather of the present present peer, was sent as envoy from Geneva to the court of Lewis XV. which station he held for sixteen years. He had four sons, viz. 1. Isaac-Louis, afterwards first syndic of Geneva, died, in 1799—2. George, a banker in Paris, in partnership with M. Necker, since famous as prime minister of France; he died in 1776—3. Peter, born June 27, 1737—4. John-Francis, also one of the syndics of Geneva, died in 1800.

Peter Thellusson, his lordship's father, came to England in 1750, and died July 27, 1797, having married, Jan. 6, 1761, Anne Woodford, second daughter of Matthew Woodford, esq. of Southampton, sister to Sir Ralph Woodford, baronet, of Carlby, Lincolnshire, by whom he had issue, 1. Peter-Isaac, the present peer—2. George-Woodford, born March 2, 1764, member in the present parliament for Barnstaple, and a director of the East India company, married to Mary-Anne Fonnereau, daughter of Philip Fonnereau, esq.—3. Charles, born Feb 2, 1770, member in three successive parliaments for the borough of Evesham, married to Miss Robarts, daughter of Abraham Robarts, esq. representative for Worcester, a banker in London, late a director of the East India company—4. Maria, born Feb 27, 1771; married, Aug. 14, 1792, the hon. Augustus Phipps, fifth son of Constantine lord Mulgrave—5. Anne, born in 1774; married, in 1801, to William Lukin, esq. a captain in the royal navy—6. Augusta-Charlotte, born Oct. 2, 1776; married to Thomas Crespigny, esq. M. P. in the last parliament for Sudbury; he died in Aug. 1799, Peter-Isaac, the eldest son, was advanced to the dignity of baron Rendlesham, of Rendlesham.

Heir Apparent—JOHN, his Lordship's eldest son.

Creation—Feb. 1806.

Motto—Labere et honore—By industry and honour.

THE MOST NOBLE ORDER OF THE GARTER.

This Order was instituted by Edward III. January 19, 1344.

THE habit and ensigns of the Order, are a surcoat, garter, mantle, hood, gorge, collar, cap, and feathers; the four first were assigned by the founder, Edward III. the others by Henry VIII. The motto on the garter and star is, Honi soit qui Mal y pense. The garter is of blue velvet, bordered with gold. The gorge is the figure of St. George on horseback, in armour, encountering a dragon with a tilting spear; the whole of gold enamelled, and may be enriched with jewels, at the pleasure of the possessor; it is worn across the right shoulder, pendant to a dark or garter-blue ribbon. The collar is of gold, weighing thirty ounces troy weight, and contains twenty-six garters, enamelled proper, in each a rose gules, and as many knots, enamelled white, to which is pedant the gorge, as above. Charles II. ordained that the Knights should always, in public, wear, embroidered on the left side of their coats or cloaks, the cross of St. George, surrounded with the garter, with rays of silver, forming a star of eight points.

At a chapter, held June 3, 1786, a new statute was ordained, that in future the Order should consist of the Sovereign and twenty-five Knights, exclusive of the sons of his Majesty, or his successors, who have been or shall be elected Knights of the same Most Noble Order.

THE MOST ANCIENT ORDER OF THE THISTLE.

THIS ancient Order was founded by king James V. 1540, revived by king James II. in 1687, and re-established by queen Anne, Dec. 31, 1703.—In 1714, king George I. confirmed the statutes of queen Anne, and several others, particularly that of making rays of glory to surround the figure of St. Andrew, which is suspended to the collar, and his majesty was pleased to order, that in future chapters of election should be held in the royal presence. To consist of the sovereign and twelve brethren or knights, making in the whole thirteen, and four officers.

The star is worn on the left side of the coat or cloak, and consists of a St. Andrew's cross of silver embroidery, with rays going out betwixt the points of the cross; on the middle thereof a thistle of gold and green upon a field of green, and round the thistle and field a circle of gold, having on it the following motto of the Order, in letters of green: NEMO ME IMPUNE LACESSIT (No man provokes me with impunity.) The badge or jewel is worn pendent to a green riband over the left shoulder, and tied under the arm; it consists of the image of St Andrew, with the cross before, enamelled and chased on rays of gold, the cross and feet resting upon a ground of enamelled green; and on the back, enamelled on a green ground, a thistle, gold and green, the flower reddish, with the before-mentioned motto round it. The collar consists of thistles and sprigs of rue going betwixt, and at the middle thereof shall be hung before the image of St. Andrew, as above; the whole of gold enamelled.

N. B There being no installation of this Order, the Knight wears the collar and star immediately after his investiture.

THE MOST HONOURABLE MILITARY ORDER OF THE BATH.

This Order was instituted in England at the coronation of Henry IV. 1339, revived by George I. and made a statutable order in 1725. The number of Knights of the Bath is at the pleasure of the sovereign,

The badge, cognizance or ensign of this Order is a rose, thistle, and shamrock, issuant from a sceptre between three imperial crowns, surrounded with the motto of the Order, viz. Tria juncta in Uno; the whole of pure gold, chased and pierced, and is worn by the knight elect, pendent from a red riband across the right shoulder. The collar is of gold, weighing thirty ounces troy weight, and is composed of nine imperial crowns, and eight roses, thistles, and shamrock, issuing from a sceptre, enamelled in their proper colours, tied or linked together with seventeen gold knots, enamelled white, having the badge of the Order pendent thereto. The star consists of three imperial crowns of gold, surrounded by the motto upon a circle of red, with rays issuant from the centre of silver, forming a star, and is embroidered on the left side of the upper garment. No knight elect can wear either the collar or star before his installation without a letter of dispensation from the sovereign, which is always granted on foreign service.

THE MOST ILLUSTRIOUS ORDER OF ST.
PATRICK.

The Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick was instituted by King George III. Feb. 5, 1783—To consist of the sovereign, a grand master, a prince of the blood royal, and thirteen knights, making in the whole sixteen, and seven officers.—The lord lieutenant for the time being is the grand master.

The star is a cross saltier of red on a field argent, surmounted with a trefoil proper, charged with three imperial crowns of gold, within a circle of gold, with the motto, QUIS SEPARABIT, MDCCLXXXIII.; the whole surrounded surrounded with eight rays of silver ; this is embroidered on the left side of the coat or cloak. The collar is of pure gold, composed of six harps and five roses, alternately joined together by twelve knots. In the centre before is a crown, to which is pendant the badge or jewel of the Order, of gold, enamelled, similar to the star except the rays.

Resolved and adjudged, by the lords spiritual and temporal in parliament assembled, that the barony of Zouch

of Harringworth, was a barony created by writ in the reign of king Edward the second, and therefore descendible to heirs general, and that the said barony fell into abeyance upon the death of Edward, the last lord Zouche, between Zouche Tate his grandson, being the son and heir of Elizabeth, his eldest daughter, and Mary, wife of William Connaid, esq. his second and younger daughter, which said Elizabeth and Mary, were the only daughters of the said lord, and that the petitioner, sir Cecil Bisshopp, bart. as grandson and heir of Catharine Hedges, who was great grand-daughter, and one of the two coheirs of the said Zouche Tate, and Jane-Catharine-Sarah-Oliver-Lucy-Anne Howell, as grand-daughters of Mary Long, and Samuel-George Heming, as son of Mary-Charlotte Heming, another grand-daughter of the said Mary Long, which said Mary Long, was the sister of the said Catharine Hedges, and the other great grand-daughter and coheir of the said Zouche Tate, are coheirs of the said Zouche Tate, who was coheir of the said Edward Lord Zouche, by Elizabeth, the eldest daughter of the said Edward Lord Zouche, and that the said sir Cecil Bisshopp, Jane-Catharine-Sarah-Oliver-Lucy-Anne Howell, and Samuel-George Heming, are the coheirs of the said last Lord Zouche, together with the heir or heirs of the body of the said Mary, the younger daughter of the said last Lord Zouche, if the said Mary hath any heir or heirs of her body now in existence, and if she hath left none, such are the sole coheirs of the said last Lord Zouche, and that the said barony is in abeyance amongst the said coheirs, and consequently is at his majesty's disposal, the said resolution and judgment was ordered to be laid before his majesty, by the lords with white staves.

The house of lords having decided as above, that the barony of Zouche, is in abeyance between sir Cecil Bisshopp, bart. and the three daughters of the late Robert Long, esq. it is presumed, that his majesty will shortly be induced to terminate the abeyance, as in every instance during the present reign, in which a petitioning coheir has been allowed to assert his claim, the grace of the crown has immediately followed the favourable report of the house of lords, the case of the barony of Beaumont, does not form a regular exception, as that turned on a particular point of law.
